SUMMARY.

Though there have been no major operations on the British front, local fighting is continuous.

The Germans made an attempt to retake Inverness Copse by means of storm troops.

A Bavarian charge secured a few small trenches, but the British counter-attacked, and flung the Germans out.

General von Arnim is industriously training the Fourth Army opposite Ypres in new open warfare.

The French carried out successful raids east of St. Hilaire, on the St. Souplet-road.

They penetrated the enemy's third line, and killed or captured a whole garrison.

An enemy attempt north-east of Tahure, in the Champagne, failed with serious losses to the Germans.

The British artillery in the region of Lens during the past month has inflicted losses totalling one-half of the German effectives.

The Germans have now brought Alsatian troops from the Russian front for the exposed positions against the Canadians.

Great aerial activity prevailed in Flanders on Tuesday, combined with successful artillery work.

Enemy aeroplanes have bombed Dunkirk. There were several victims among civilians.

M. Kerensky has issued a proclamation declaring his complete faith in all ranks of the army and the fleet.

"Everyone, whether general or soldier, will be punished," he says, "for the slightest disobedience."

M. Kerensky declares that "the attempt at mutiny" by General Korniloff has ended in failure.

"The people," M. Kerensky says, "support the Government, and have complete faith in the triumph of its cause."

A German official message says: We repulsed Russian reconnoitres between the Baltic and the Dwina.

French and Russian troops, following up their recent success, brilliantly carried a village at Lake Ochrida in Macedonia.

The Italians, after a bitter struggle, repulsed attacks on the crest of the western slope of Mount St. Gabriel.

Advices received in New York from Buenos Aires state that Count von Luxburg has been handed his passports.

The Argentine Government is re-opening the submarine controversy, by asking Germany to re-define her policy.

If the reply is satisfactory Germany, it is stated, will be permitted to send another Minister to the Argentine.

Several anti-German and anti-Swedish demonstrations have been suppressed in Buenos Aires.

Germany is stated to be organising a peace propaganda in the United States to delay America's war preparations.

The losses of shipping by submarines show a decrease. The sinkings for the week were 12 ships over 1600 tons, and six under that tonnage.

It is reported that the Belgian question will occupy an important place in Germany's reply to the Pope's Peace Note.

Sir Walter Davidson, the new Governor of New South Wales, will arrive in Sydney about December. He will travel via America.

The bill repealing the Daylight Saving Act has been passed by both Houses of the Federal Parliament.

In regard to the curtailment of racing it is explained that pony racing is not to be abolished.

"Only unlicensed meetings are not to be allowed," remarks the Minister for Defence.

Interest in the strike yesterday centred in the negotiations between the Industrial Commissioner and the coal miners' representatives.

On behalf of the Government Mr. Holme submitted proposals for the future working of the mines.

The terms were rejected, on the ground that they were "humiliating and degrading."

The Government expects, at the present rate of progress, to obtain 10,000 tons of coal per day in a month's time.

Waiting on Sydney is now the attitude of the Union Defence Committee in Melbourne in respect to the strike generally.

A conference of Victorian unions discussed a proposal yesterday that all unions not directly concerned should return to work.

No decision on the proposal was announced.

The Pelaw Main and Richmond Main collieries will probably be worked by the Victorian Government.

The regulation cancelling preference under agreements to waterside workers has been extended to Port Kembla and Wollongong.

The output of gas at the Australian Gaslight Company's works is now regarded as satisfactory.

There are between 500 and 600 volunteers at work, and some of the restrictions in the use of gas have been relaxed.

Ample labour is stated to be available for the North Shore Gas Company's works. A number of strikers returned yesterday.

The Gas Board has allowed the use of gas supplied by the Australian Gaslight Company between 5 and 8 a.m. and 5 and 10.30 p.m.

No alterations have been made in the restrictions on the use of gas supplied by the North Shore Gas Company.

The de-registration of the Gas Employees' Union was applied for by the Australian Gaslight Company yesterday.

Judge Rolin adjourned the matter till Monday to give the union an opportunity of calmly considering its position.

The application forms have now been signed by over 1000 strikers.

The railway passenger and goods train services are being worked without difficulty.

Strike matters occupied a prominent place in the speeches at the annual meeting of the Chamber of Manufactures.

The president said the manufacturers were ready to assist the Government in every possible way.

The number of loyalists encamped at the Sydney Cricket Ground and Taronga Park is 866.

The demand for voluntary labour continues, and efforts are being made to augment the number of volunteers by 1000.

The Crown case in the charges of conspiracy against four labour leaders was concluded yesterday. The further hearing was adjourned until to-day.

The trustees of the National Art Gallery have purchased a number of new works from the Royal Art Society's collection.

A union secretary was arrested on a charge of conspiracy. He was brought up at the Central Police Court, and remanded.

The Citizens' Association has resolved to go into recess for the duration of the war.

The consideration of the Estimates was resumed in the Legislative Assembly, those of the Education Department being taken.

The Minister said it had been intended to increase the minimum salary for teachers to £156, but the increase was deferred.

The Cabinet had, however, decided to provide on the supplementary Estimates £20,000 for allowances to married teachers.

In the Legislative Council the Finance Taxation (Amendment) Bill was read a second time and passed.

The strike, it was stated, had resulted in an enormous falling off of receipts from the railways.

The Government has promised to reconsider the division of the totalisator percentage if the system proves unfair to the racing clubs.

The Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the Public Service of New South Wales held its opening sitting yesterday.

The nominations for the Assembly elections in Western Australia have closed. Ten retiring members were returned unopposed.

There are 112 candidates for the 40 remaining seats. The ex-Premier, Mr. Scaddan, is contesting Albany.

Forecast.—Rain contracting to the north-east and becoming fine generally, with cool southerly winds.

TAILORING—BY PEAPES.

STYLES FOR SUMMER WEAR.

Spring and its outdoor events, closely followed by the hot weather, now brings before many men the need for ordering clothes of correct weight and new style.

Peapes produce two classes of tailoring in their workrooms—the best being specialised INDIVIDUAL workmanship, and the second (Economic Tailoring) being the result of COLLECTIVE effort.

The best tailoring ranges in prices from £5/10/, and introduces materials of excellent texture and distinctive character.

Economic Tailoring is priced from £3/10/ to £4/10/, and whilst the materials are, of course, not so good as those used in our best tailoring, they are still GOOD Suitings, carefully chosen, and certainly better than any that could now be obtained from the mills in England or Australia at similar prices.

Men who wish to limit their outlay to a moderate price, will find in Peapes' Economic Tailoring the full expression of good style, and a quality that ensures satisfactory service.

May we send our patterns? The full range of Summer stock is ready now.

OPEN TILL 9 TO-NIGHT.

ANOTHER BIG ECONOMY DAY AMONGST THE SPRING FASHIONS AT SNOW'S.

"How are ideas obtained for the new fashions?" is an oft-heard question. "World-wide Borrowings" is the answer.

We may find the long lines of Greek Draperies, the smock of the French peasant, or the full, simple blouse of the Russian Moujik. Even the Chinese are drawn upon for ideas in embroideries and beautiful colour combinations.

The average woman, however, is more interested in securing the new styles at the lowest prices than in studying their origin. That is where the helpfulness of SNOW'S is demonstrated. We are always closely in touch with the style centres of the world, so that immediately a new idea flutters out it is secured and copied for the benefit of our customers. And, as we have clearly shown in the past, Snow's prices are usually lower than elsewhere.

THE BLOUSES TELL A TALE OF SPRING.

An interesting story of fluffy styles, of Voiles, and Silks, and Crepes, whose climax is low prices.

10/6 BUYS a very pretty WHITE COTTON VOILE BLOUSE, made on long lines, with flat rolling shawl collar, having scalloped edge of washing silk. Dainty cuffs to match.

ANOTHER WHITE COTTON VOILE BLOUSE, has shoulder seam and fitted armholes, front is daintily trimmed with pin tucks, and well embroidered white washing silk, roll collar, and cuffs to match. SNOW'S PRICE, 12/11.

A charming new BLOUSE of WHITE CREPE DE CHINE, has smart pleated collar, and long front effect. Black shoulders, fitted armhole, all seams well hemstitched. SNOW'S PRICE, 19/11.

Snow's have a JUMPER BLOUSE in WHITE OPAL MUSLIN, assorted designs, in heavy embossing. Yoke is trimmed with pin tucks, and wire ground Valenciennes Lace, waist finished with Black and Navy ribbon belts. SNOW'S PRICE, 23/6.

NEW SPRING SKIRTS, TOO.

A wealth of Smart Styles at Practical Prices:—

A SMART TWO TONE CHECK SKIRT comes in Fine Summer Tweed. It is eased at back of waist, has imitation pockets on hips, and is trimmed with Black braid buttons, wide front panel, and tuck seam right down to foot. SNOW'S PRICE, 29/11.

There is an ALL-WOOL COVERT SKIRT, in summer weight, that has half belt, and is eased at back of waist. It has panel front, and pockets cut in one piece, pocket finished with wide tuck seam. SNOW'S PRICE, 42/.

An ALL-WOOL COATING SERGE SKIRT, with panel front, and four knife pleats from hip. It has smart wide belt and haversack pocket, and is eased at back of waist. Nicely trimmed with buttons, in Navy and Black. SNOW'S PRICE, 49/.

Also in maids' sizes, 39/11.

It is almost WHITE SKIRT TIME, and here is a PURE GRASS BLEACHED LINEN SKIRT, with satchel pockets attached from waist, trimmed with 4 crochet buttons. Front plaquet finished with buttonholes and crochet buttons, eased at back of waist, finished with belt. Two styles. 16/11.

Snow's have 5 styles in PIQUE SKIRTS at 18/11. One style has haversack pockets attached, with tabs to waist, belt passing through the tabs. Tuck seam down centre front, nicely eased back at waist, trimmed with crochet buttons.

Dear Sir,—
S.S. ORSOVA.
The following is an extract from a letter dated the 8th August, received from Mr. Schild, Agent of the Hungarian Levant Line in Padang:—
"The 'Orsova' being eager to get rid of her cargo, it has now been decided that, in order to push the delivery of goods, this steamer will grant the same landing facilities as the 'Kleist' and 'Rheinland' used to do in delivering cargo alongside the steamer. I think the Scheepsagentuur will now be open, to take care of the 'Orsova' cargo.
"The conditions on which the 'Orsova' will deliver cargo alongside are the following:—
"(1) Sheltering charges of 17 per cent. of c.i.f. value for delivery during this month. For every following month ½ per cent. additional.
"(2) Full sets of Bills of Lading, or Bank Guarantee by a Dutch East Indian Bank for missing copies. No delivery without at least one copy of Bill of Lading.
"(3) Cash payment of full freight, if unpaid.
"(4) Local harbour dues F.124.23 for every discharging day or a contract for 20 days—F.106.80—to be paid by receivers of cargo. If several parties receive cargo simultaneously, such harbour dues to be divided pro rata between them. If a big quantity, say about 300 tons, is received at the same time, the steamer is ready to pay these harbour dues on her own account.

LAW REPORT.

BANCO COURT.

(Before the Chief Justice and a jury of four.)

The action Barrie and others v Cowling, arising out of the sale of a travelling crane, is still part heard.

NO. 1 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Pring and a jury of four.)

A SOLDIER'S CLAIM.

Rich v A.M.P. Society.

Mr. Loxton, K.C., and Mr. Boyce, instructed by Mr. A. J. Grant, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. Shand, K.C., and Mr. Clive Teece, instructed by Messrs. Stephen, Jaques, and Stephen, for the defendant society. This was an action brought by William Milton Rich against the Australian Mutual Provident Society to recover compensation for alleged wrongful dismissal. Mr. Loxton said that during plaintiff's engagement the society, with a view to inducing their employees to enlist for military service abroad, promised to anyone so enlisting that his full salary would be paid during his absence, and that upon his return he would be reinstated in his old position. Plaintiff was one of those who enlisted, and he left with the expeditionary forces for the front on April 1, 1915. When within about two days' steaming from Colombo, however, he undoubtedly had attacks of faintness. The result was that the military authorities came to the conclusion that it would not be safe to take him through the Red Sea, and he was therefore invalided back and placed upon home service. On the 30th September, 1916, he received notice from the defendant society terminating his employment. Plaintiff did not ask in the action for the payment of his salary while absent on military service, but he said that, though he was ready and willing to continue his employment, the defendants terminated it without reasonable notice. He therefore sued to recover damages for which he conceived to be wrongful dismissal, resulting in the loss of his salary and his inability to obtain other employment afterwards. Damages were laid at £1000.

Defendant denied that the plaintiff was ready and willing to continue in the service, and said that before terminating his engagement they gave him reasonable notice. In a third plea they said it was a term and condition of the contract that plaintiff should be of such good and sufficient health as to render his life an acceptable risk for assurance by them, but plaintiff was not of such good and sufficient health, whereupon the society dismissed him from their service. They pleaded further that plaintiff, by reason of permanent ill-health and chronic sickness, was incapable of performing the service, whereupon they dismissed him, and that, upon taking out his policy he concealed from them the fact that he suffered from epileptic or other fits or from giddiness, and had falsely stated that he had always enjoyed good health.

The case stands part heard.

NO. 2 JURY COURT.

(Before Mr. Justice Sly and a jury of four.)

FELL DOWN STAIRS.

Fleming v Union Theatres, Ltd.

Mr. Mack and Mr. Collins, instructed by Mr. W. M. Daly, appeared for the plaintiff; and Mr. H. E. Manning, instructed by Messrs. John Williamson and Sons, for defendants. This was an action brought by Amy Fleming, a married woman, against the Union Pictures, Ltd., to recover compensation for injuries sustained by plaintiff through falling down part of the stairs of the Lyric Theatre, while leaving the show on the night of June 11. She contended that the accident was caused by the negligence of the defendants or their servants in turning off the lights before she had time to leave the premises.

Defendants pleaded not guilty, and brought evidence to show that the lights were put out after the audience had left the theatre. That would be about 11 o'clock.

The jury returned a verdict for plaintiff in the sum of £250.

EQUITY COURT.

Argument in the suit of Chadwick v Chadwick is still part heard.

(Before Mr. Justice Harvey.)

MOVING PICTURES.

EX PARTE INJUNCTION.

Mr. F. Leverrier, K.C., and Mr. Claude Weston, instructed by Messrs. Sly and Russell, applied, ex parte, on behalf of Spencer's Pictures, Ltd., Australasian Films, Ltd., and Union Theatres, Ltd. (plaintiffs), for an injunction restraining Spencer Cosens (defendant), usually known as Cosens Spencer, from committing breaches of an agreement dated September 18, 1911, and also from accepting a certain lease of the Lyceum Theatre.

The statement of claim set out that in part of 1911 the defendant carried on in Sydney, Melbourne, Adelaide, Perth, and other places in Australia businesses of a moving picture proprietor, and he owned and leased various properties, including a lease of the Lyceum Theatre, Sydney. On September 18, 1911, the defendant and one Bragg, on behalf of a company about to be formed, styled Spencer's Pictures, Ltd., agreed that the defendant, as vendor, should sell to the proposed company the goodwill, etc. of the defendant's said businesses. The new company, on the adoption of the agreement, paid the vendor a certain sum in cash, and it was agreed that the balance of the consideration should be £100,000, paid as to £45,000 in cash, and, as to the residue (£55,000) by the allotment to the vendor of 55,000 £1 shares in the company, credited as fully paid up. The company was duly incorporated as Spencer's Pictures, Ltd.

By agreement of April 18, 1912, three companies—West's, Amalgamated Pictures, and the plaintiff, Spencer's Pictures, Ltd—were merged into a company, called the General Film Company of Australasia, Ltd. The consideration to the first three companies being fully paid up shares in the General Film Company, the latter being incorporated on November 19, 1912.

On January 6, 1913, an agreement was come to between the General Film Company and the Greater J. D. Williams Amusement Company, Ltd., by which two companies were procured. The first—the A Company, importing, selling, and manufacturing films and biographs—and the second—known as the B Company—engaging in picture exhibiting businesses in Australasia. On the formation of the A and B companies (the Union Theatres, Ltd., being the latter) the defendant became a director, but he resigned in January, 1914.

It is further charged by the plaintiffs that the defendant, acting on behalf of his wife, Senora Spencer, was largely interested in picture shows in Brisbane and Newcastle in 1915, and later. It is also charged that the defendant permitted his wife to use the name of Spencer at the said shows, and that he was also interested in films imported from America. The plaintiff, Spencer's Pictures, Ltd., had a lease of the Lyceum Theatre, Sydney, which expires next February. On asking for a further lease, Spencer's Pictures, Ltd., was told that there was a competitor for the lease. This competitor, it is alleged, is the defendant, who, it is asserted, proposes to lease the Lyceum for moving pictures.

Affidavits by William Barrington Miller (manager Union Theatres, Ltd.) and Harry George Musgrove were read in support of the application.

His Honor granted an injunction till Wednesday next against defendant accepting a lease of the Lyceum in pursuance of any agreement for a lease already entered into by him, or from entering into any agreement for a lease of the theatre for the purpose of letting or using it for a picture show.

SUIT SETTLED.

O'Brien v Black.

Mr. F. R. Jordan, instructed by Messrs. T. Rose and Dawes, appeared for the plaintiff, Thomas O'Brien; the defendant, Philip Black, appeared in person, and the other defendant, Maria O'Brien, appeared to submit. The matter at issue concerned the ownership of a ham, beef, and grocery business at 44 Ocean-street, Woollahra. By consent, a decree was made in favour of the plaintiff, but it is not to be enforced if the male defendant pays plaintiff £76 within three weeks.

William James Cambourn sued for divorce from Adelaide Cambourn (formerly Buckingham), on the ground of the latter's misconduct with Alonza Wood, who was joined as co-respondent. Mr. Maddocks Cohen appeared for the petitioner. A decree nisi was granted, with costs against the co-respondent.

Boyce and Magney, agents for Messrs. Connellan and Pearce (of Parkes), appeared for the petitioner. An order was granted directing the respondent to return to his wife.

BARRASS v BARRASS.

His Honor granted a decree nisi for dissolution of marriage on the suit of Harold Edward Barrass against Annie Mary Barrass (formerly Maunsell). Desertion by non-compliance with a decree for restitution of conjugal rights was the ground of the suit.

LONESOME HEIGHTS.

BY HALLIWELL SUTCLIFFE.

[ALL RIGHTS RESERVED.]

CHAPTER VIII.—Continued.

It was well for Jasper that a smile, of his own forthright outlook, stepped out of the porchway and came down the garden-path.

"Glad to see you, lad," said Royd. "Leave Hazel to pick daisies, and we'll have a scamper up the fields. Just you and I, and a dog or two. I can lend you a gun."

"He asked me to ride with him, sir," said Hazel demurely.

"Oh, well, I'll not keep him from a promise—"

"But I do not want to ride to-day; so he is free."

Royd glanced at her with whimsical surprise. It seemed only yesterday that she was in the nursery; and now she had the self-possession of a woman—a woman who had been slighted in one way or another. His thoughts ran back a score years, and he found a quiet, mirthful sympathy for Jasper when the boy confided in him.

"I can't tell what's amiss with Hazel," he said, as they went up the fields. "It began yesterday, at our own gate. I knew Dick was needing me, and of course I went."

Royd nodded. In those few words the history of many years was wrapped. "What has happened to will-o'-wisp this time?" he asked.

"Nothing at all. I met him up the High Pasture, whistling like a throstle."

"Take Hazel's whimsies at that. I'm pouring old wisdom into young ears, but you'll remember later on. Never ask why or wherefore, when womenfolk have their moods. Just get up the fields, with a dog and a gun for company. You'll find the women penitent when you return—ay, you'll find 'em penitent, if you bide away long enough."

Royd might jest as he liked; but throughout that day his heart was heavy. He knew, as all the Dene knew, the trouble that was coming to this lad, upstanding lad—a trouble not concerned with Dick. As they tramped the fields he wondered over and over again if it were kinder to prepare him; and always he decided that it was better to let Jasper have his keen, eager boyhood while he might. He was kind to him—fussily kind, almost—as a father might be when he knows that his son goes soon to face real trouble.

When they returned to Langcotes and were striding up the path, Hazel came out of the nowhere—magically, it seemed to Jasper, as he saw the tender beauty of her and the smile she gave him.

"I want you, Jasper," she said, as if she had him at command.

Royd left them to it, and went on into the house. "There's an old dream coming true out yonder," he said, meeting his wife at the stair-foot. "It is just as we hoped—the Holts and we—and just as you played cat's-cradle with me in our own young days, until—"

"Yes, until, dear?" said Mrs. Royd suavely.

"Oh, till I mastered you, and we began to be happy. Why are you laughing, wife?"

She did not tell him. It was useless to explain her knowledge that once in a century it happened that a woman found a man strong enough to master her and bring her to a fine content. So much went to the making of that kingship—gifts from high heaven, of strength and gentleness and utter courtesy—gifts of understanding when to rule and when to be the bondslave for the moment. So much was asked, too, of the wife who carried this fine crown of a man's love. Take it altogether, it did not stand to common-sense that two such people should happen often to be mated.

"I was laughing, dear, because we jog along so well together, in spite of the muddy boots you bring into the house. And you smell like Esau, husband, returning from the chase."

"Well, I always liked the hale sportsman better than Jacob, as young Dick Holt says so often. Jacob was like Murgatroyd down yonder—for ever grinding at the mills of trade. I'd rather sell my birthright for a hare, deftly shot and cooked, than for a yard of cloth."

Again she laughed, out of rhyme and reason. "What is it?" he asked, with good-tempered sharpness. "Women must always be laughing or crying, somehow."

"Esau forgets to kiss me. And he's right, of course. He smells too much of hares and rabbits."

Out of doors their girl was asking Jasper once again why he had picked a quarrel with her; and, because she was so desolate and dainty, he was sure that he had made this trouble, though he could not tell her how or why. And then the tears came thick and fast. She was a child again.

"I'm sorry—oh, so sorry, Jasper."

"Why, Goldilocks?"

"I was tiresome to myself when you left me at the gate yesterday. Something quite black and cold came round me. The shepherds say it feels like that to be drowning in a bog."

"What was it, child?"

She fought with her pride, fought steadfastly. And then the tears came again, and ruined all, because she could do nothing but remember a long-ago day when Jasper had fought many dragons for her—cold, and loneliness, and hunger—dread of gypsy-men who might come borrowing her for their caravans—a hundred fears that were released when he found her in the wood. She remembered now the joy of that release, and yet her jealousy would not be quiet.

"You left me so easily, just because Dick needed you."

"But you were in no danger."

"If I had been? Suppose each of us was needing you?"

The question was out and away before she could check it. Royd's little girl had been a child yesterday, and would be again; for the moment she was a woman, asking riddles old as the world's first mysteries.

But Jasper was a stripling yet, and could find no ready answer.

CHAPTER IX.

GABRIEL'S HOUNDS.

The Cringle Dene folk had faults of their own, but gossip for gossip's sake was not one of them. They left that to Consett, with its chattering looms and the bond-slaves fettered to them. For their own part, they had grown from childhood into the mellow peace and dignity of this enchanted valley. The roughest of the wool-combers knew, in some shy, hidden way, that sanctuary and betterment were cradled in this hollow of the high moor's hand.

The day had its toil and hardship, here as elsewhere; but these were not made harder by casual spite of tongues, sucking venom from the under-pools of life. Such gossips as found haven in the Dene were compelled to bridle impulse, lest they found themselves unfriended.

For this reason, it meant much that all the Dene's talk nowadays was of their Squire. They saw the cobwebs widen round his face, ruddy and square-set to meet the world—little, grey cobwebs, filmy as the shepherd's ghost that roamed the Heights. They marked his ready laughter, his readier tenderness with all the down-hearted or the sick. They knew that, for some reason of his own, he was running a fast and plucky race with death; but even Royd, his boon-comrade, did not guess the reason, though the race was plain enough for him to see.

October ripened into flame and splendour, as the year stepped, like a great-hearted gentleman, to winter's death and certainty of resurrection. The Squire forgot many things these days, or ill-health forbade him to attend to them: but no hindrance of the body kept him from going to the grey, old kirk at Consett every Sabbath morning. He would drive the gig-and-pair, as of old—the twins tucked in behind the wife and himself—and put up at the Angel Tavern, hard by the church—and would mount the outside stairway leading to the family pew.

It was set in the north wall, this chamber, over the little vestry. It had a fireplace in it, and a table; but the days were long past when old Squire Cunliffe, who had owned it once, played cards with his friends through the length of a forty-minutes' sermon.

Men near to death ask many questions of themselves, wondering what has been done or left undone in the past that will fit them for the untried adventures soon to come. The Squire was honest with himself, as Sunday after Sunday he went up in state to the pew above the vestry. Pride brought him here. He acknowledged that. But there was something more—something deeper than pride, and older than his heritage in Cringle Dene. These folk he looked down on from the pew-font—men whose rents were paid or overdue, whose backslidings were known to him as he knew the shape of Pendle Hill—the matrons, the young girls and the lads—Royd's slip of a lass yonder, angelic with the October sunlight playing bo-peep in her wonderful, gold hair—he saw them all for awhile, one by one. Then they grew to be a single company, they and he, sending up a fine and wholesome praise to the God Who had set them here in Cringle Dene, to live their lives out under shelter of the abiding hills.

TO USERS OF

HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS

The Reliable Home Remedy for Headaches, Backache, Neuralgia, Insomnia, Dyspepsia, Hysteria, Anaemia, Palpitation, Nervous Breakdown, Mental Depression, and other Disorders of the Nervous System.

Knowing that physical exercise is a potent factor in the maintenance of health and strength, and believing that a knowledge of Ju-Jitsu will prove most useful for both men and women, because of the means it places in their hands for self-protection, as well as for its developmental influence, I have made arrangements with PROFESSOR W. A. HILL, the World's White Champion Exponent of the Art, whereby I am able to offer to users of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS who send me the cartons or wrappers from six large boxes a gift of 43 lessons in Ju-Jitsu, such as learners by mail have hitherto paid £4/4/ for.

As the expense of this arrangement with Professor Hill is considerable, the offer will only be available to the first 1000 people who comply with the conditions set out above.

I have adopted this means of advertising the health and strength building properties of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS, because I know that their use, combined with rational physical exercise, will go far towards making healthy and happy men and women of many who are now, and have long been, comparative physical and nervous wrecks.

While on this subject, I feel justified in quoting below a letter received from Professor Hill last May, extolling HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS. It was the receipt of this letter that led up to me personally meeting Professor Hill for the first time. Subsequent conversations resulted in me coming to terms with him for offering a free Ju-Jitsu course to users of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS. Following is the letter referred to:—

Mr. G. W. Hean, Chemist. — 100 Stanley-street, Darlinghurst, May 25, 1917.

Dear Sir,—

As a physical culturist and exponent of the art of Ju-Jitsu, I am naturally opposed to the use of drugs for the treatment of nervous ailments. I recognise, however, that strenuous exertion, mental work, and anxiety cause a wastage of nerve force, which demands replenishment by the assimilation of nerve nourishment through the blood channel. The so-called "refining" of many articles of diet deletes from them much of their essential nerve-building constituents. It is here that the scientific chemist can play an important part, and in the case of Hean's Tonic Nerve Nuts has done so, by giving to us in a concentrated form, strength and vigour-creating elements. After convincing myself as to the nutritive value of Hean's Tonic Nerve Nuts, I adopted them as an adjunct to my regular diet by taking one or two nuts after each meal, and I find they have added materially to my powers of endurance during strenuous bouts. I have recommended their use to a number of my friends, and I know of no case where their strengthening influence has not been manifested.

Yours faithfully,
W. A. HILL.

As a chemist of over 25 years' experience, dispensing prescriptions written by eminent nerve specialists who successfully aimed at nourishing the nervous system instead of employing stimulants and narcotics for the counteracting of neurasthenic ailments, I know that in HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS I am giving to the public a blood-purifying and nerve and brain-strengthening compound of the highest value. The encouraging letters which I receive from men and women of all ages, thanking me for the benefit they have derived from the use of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS convince me that the day is not far distant when they will be as universally adopted for nervous ailments as HEENZO (Registered name for Hean's Essence) is already used for coughs, colds, and sore throats.

"Herald" readers desirous of availing of my offer of 43 lessons in Ju-Jitsu should send along the attached coupon, accompanied by wrappers from six large-size boxes of HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS as soon as possible.

HEAN'S TONIC NERVE NUTS are obtainable from all leading chemists and stores; but should they not yet be stocked in your locality you may obtain them from me by post. The price is 3/ per box, containing 12 days' treatment, or six boxes for 17/3. Small boxes containing half quantity are 2/ each.

Mr. G. W. HEAN, Manufacturing Chemist,

Dear Sir,—Herewith I am sending you six wrappers from large-size boxes of Hean's Tonic Nerve Nuts. In return I wish you to send me free of charge the course of Ju-Jitsu as offered by you in the "Sydney Morning Herald."

ON THE LAND.

BEES AND FRUIT.

On the occasion of a recent visit to the citrus fruit orchards of the Galston district it was noticed that there were many empty hives in the apiary of one of them. Inquiry elicited the fact that a number of the bees had perished from poisoning, as a result of the spraying of the fruit trees at an unsuitable time for pests. It has long since been demonstrated that bees are an essential adjunct of the orchard, since they render valuable service in the matter of assisting fertilisation. Apart from their economic value, therefore, bees are recognised as a useful ally of the orchardist. Growers state that the only way in which spraying may be carried on without danger of depleting the hives is to delay the work until the whole of the petals have fallen. In the cases referred to the spraying had been done while the blooms were still young, and consequently offered attraction for the honey gatherers. As the worker bee roves over a considerable area of country in quest of nectar and pollen it is, of course, not sufficient that only the owner of the hives should time his spraying to suit the convenience of the bees. Admitting that the orchardist who keeps bees is helping the industry generally, it is practically impossible for other orchardists to avoid spraying before all the blossom falls, as that happens irregularly, and with apples, pears, etc., it is necessary if the poison is to be lodged in time to be effectual, to spray more than once to deal with the different stages of blossoming.

STORING WHEAT.

A gentleman who claims to have had close upon 25 years' experience in handling wheat, recently protested against the silos the Government proposes to erect to store wheat in the country. He stated that trouble would result owing to the damage done by weevil, which would soon be in evidence, as no provision was to be made for aerating the grain when held in bulk. We are informed, however, that provision will be made to instal machinery for turning the wheat in the silo as a safeguard against the weevil.

DAIRY INDUSTRY ACT.

Notwithstanding that it is specifically provided in the Dairy Industry Act, 1915, sec. 5 (4) that nothing therein shall be taken to abridge the powers vested in the Board of Health at the date of the passing of the Act, the wording of the preceding sub-section has been the occasion of some confusion from which even the department administering the Act has not been exempt. The Director-General of Public Health points out that section 5 (3) reads:

It shall not be necessary for a local authority to keep a register under the Dairies Supervision Act, 1901, in respect of any dairy produce factory, or store which is registered under this Act . . . . .

By the traders concerned and by the late dairy expert to the Department of Agriculture this was interpreted that dairy produce factories were entirely outside the scope of the Dairies Supervision Act. Replying to an inquiry, Mr. O'Callaghan wrote: " . . . . the municipal inspector cannot inspect your factory under the Dairies Supervision Act as hitherto, nor can he register it, as registration under this Act as dairy produce factories has been repealed." But the dairy inspectors of the Board of Health were quick to detect that many of these premises were not exclusively dairy produce factories. While they were registered as such, it was the practice to receive milk to be stored or chilled preparatory to being sent to Sydney. As the dairy produce factory is defined "A building or place where condensed milk, butter, cheese, or margarine is prepared or manufactured, or where cream is treated preparatory to manufacture," manifestly the reception of milk to be stored or chilled for the purpose above stated was not contemplated by the framers of the Act. The great bulk of the milk so stored or chilled is intended for human consumption, and the Board of Health took the view that the portion of these premises where milk is stored should be registered under the Dairies Supervision Act, 1901, so that storage could be supervised by its inspectors and the officers of the local authorities, as in the case of other milk vendors.

The matter having been referred to the Crown Solicitor, the board is advised that its interpretation is sound; that in the opinion of the Crown Solicitor that part of a dairy produce factory premises which is used for the purpose of a milk-store must be registered under the Dairies Supervision Act. This is an important advising, and it is well the traders concerned should know exactly where they stand in the matter. No doubt many of them neglected to register their premises under the Dairies Supervision Act under a misapprehension of their position, and in a few cases at least they appear to have been wrongly advised. The Board of Health is instructing its inspectors and the local authorities that premises such as described must be registered under the Dairies Supervision Act. And in view of the approach of the new registration year traders will be well advised to take this as a timely intimation of the board's intentions, and bring their premises into conformity with the requirements of the law.

SOUTH COAST MILK TRADE.

The South Coast milk trade is now in a very solid position, for which producers have to a great extent to thank themselves. The operations of the Dairy Farmers' Milk Company for the year are creditable indeed. The average price paid suppliers for milk was 10½d per gallon. In addition, the dairy farmers received an extra farthing per gallon for milk testing 3.2 per cent. and over. Supplies have been equal to requirements for the greater part of the year. During the autumn a shortage threatened, and was relieved by a rainfall and resort to hand-feeding. The prompt treatment of milk in the country by pasteurisation, together with bulk carriage, ensures a high-grade milk being placed on the market at all times. Dapto branch, with its up-to-date buildings, plant, and regular water supply, gave suppliers continuous and satisfactory service. Four years ago this company was only running between 25 to 30 milk carts. Now it has well on to 70. The actual cash turnover was £20,000 more than the previous year. In the last three years the milk distribution increased 1½ million gallons. The Illawarra Co-operative Central Dairy Company at Albion Park, one of the largest and most progressive concerns of its kind on the coast, manufactured 475,366lb of butter, and in addition pasteurised 1,650,882 gallons of milk for the city trade. The company has now decided to add another branch to its business—the chilling of rabbits. There is a plentiful supply from the mountain in the vicinity of the factory. The factory's scheme of buying fodder for the dairy farmers is favourably looked upon. Buying in bulk and direct from the producer would effect a great saving as compared with farmers trading with the middleman. On many parts of the coast hand-feeding has to be resorted to nearly all the year round. At certain periods an enormous quantity of bran, chaff, and hay have to be brought into the district from Unanderra to Albion Park. The pastures cannot stand the strain of stock continually grazing without anything being done to replenish the land.

AGRICULTURAL SHOWS.

LOCKHART.

LOCKHART.—The second patriotic show and the fifteenth exhibition of the Lockhart A. and P. Society, was opened on Wednesday. As in former years, the draught section was the pivot of the show, and was of a character which reflected the greatest credit upon the horse-breeders of the district. It may be mentioned, for instance, that amongst the exhibits is included Invermay, the horse which was champion in Sydney and Melbourne last year, and is now the property of Mr. P. Tenpison, of Lockhart. The Parkhill stud stock were also very much in evidence in the prize list. The yearling filly section made one of the finest exhibitions that could be seen anywhere. There were eleven entries, and the contest gave the judge no light task; it was a class which indicated the benefits progressive horse-breeding confer upon a district when such an excellent stamp of young stock comes forward. The thoroughbreds were not largely represented. Cattle and sheep were poorly represented. This is not a cattle, but essentially a sheep, district, and it appears inexplicable that a handful of sheep came forward; poultry is an improving section of the show. The society will do better when they find it convenient to make better provision for the exhibits.

COUNTRY DISPLAY.

GRENFELL.—Quite a number of messages have been received from all parts of the State in favour of a country primary producers' display in Sydney about Easter time next year, as outlined in the "Herald" last week.

RELIGIOUS LITERATURE.

INDUSTRIAL COMPETITION.

The series of papers which make up this volume are not written from the view-point of economics, but from that of the Gospel of Christ as permeating and controlling the existing social order and all relationships of human life. Though there are five contributors they have worked in harmony, with mutual criticism and discussion. The writers are members of a collegium formed to study the application of Christianity to social relationships, and to make some contribution to the education of the Christian conscience. Such work is needed, how sorely needed we hardly realise. We are apt to go on as if the existing social order were a divinely fixed institution, as fixed as the laws of nature, whereas much of it is totally wanting in the true spirit of Christ. There are still not a few who hold that "business is business," and must be kept quite apart from the ethics of Christ. Yet we have gained much as compared with the days before factory legislation in England, and these advances have derived their dynamic from the awakening of the Christian conscience. That process will go on. Circumstances may give it occasion, but the driving power is spiritual. The sense of unfairness or injustice will not bring release. It will awaken the desire, and the desire will find expression, but the motive power lies in the enlightened Christian conscience of the community. Herein is the value of the work being done by this collegium, and something similar would be a great gain to Sydney in these times. Whatever this world-war may do with the map of Europe, it is going to produce greater changes in social relationships, especially in European lands.

The subject discussed in this volume goes to the roots of existing industrial arrangements, but it is here viewed essentially on its moral side. Is the competitive system in itself contrary to the genius of the Christian faith which emphasises the brotherhood of man? Competition is defined as "the act of striving for identical objects which cannot be possessed or enjoyed in common." That definition covers many aspects of human life, but as the problem presents itself most keenly in the sphere of industrialism the discussion is confined to that aspect. The lines followed may be summarised thus, how competition arose, how far it is successful from the economic point of view, the effects of the present competitive system on character, the possibility of remedying the evils of competition, the palliative effect of such measures, and finally the insistence upon a changed moral relationship in society as the only escape from the present evil method of industrial competition. Though the volume contains only 230 pages it succeeds in presenting the various sides of a complicated question in a clear and interesting manner. The balance of judgment is however against the competitive system, as we know it, and the kind of competition which would meet the Christian moral ideal would not know itself as even distantly related to the existing system. The world needs fellowship more than it seeks it, but the competitive system is a disruption of fellowship, and so far is anti-Christian. Of course there is a great deal which can be said for competition, but no one can justifiably deny that it has worked a tragedy of misery. It is urged that competition is instinct in human nature, but is this not to confuse the desire of attainment with the morally lower desire to beat another on the same road? It is true that from childhood education is inculcated by way of competition; but it is just possible that there is a better way. Further, to assert that competition, the struggle for existence which kills off the weaker elements of society, is nature's main law of progress, and therefore justifies our competitive systems as rooted in nature, is a libel upon nature and a denial that God is love. Finally, competition ceases to be such when the parties to it do not approach an equality of power or advantage. It is this effort to equalise power of bargaining which gave rise to and justifies unionism. The general effect of the volume before us is to make us dissatisfied with the moral basis of modern industrialism, but to change it is so basic a change that it is not easy to come by. The book is a really valuable study, and opens up visions of the great ethical mission which the Church has got to discharge, a mission which will require the devotion of the saint, the wisdom of the statesman, and the courage of the martyr.

THE BEGINNINGS OF CHRISTIANITY.

Dr. Nolloth has essayed a task where men like Pfleiderer have been before him, but the [illegible] to believe in his own. So much has been written from every point of view regarding the first century of the Christian era that a survey of the whole ground, competently done, will be useful to many. Dr. Nolloth knows the ground, and is fully aware of the various theories put forward to explain the rise of the Christian religion. He wastes no time over the vagaries of Drews or Smith, and he has little sympathy with the saner views of Pfleiderer. The author follows the line of Scripture, that Christianity is a supernatural religion, whose founder was Jesus Christ. God manifest in the flesh, "a divine force plunged into the midst of human circumstance." The study is based upon a strong sense of the historical value of the sources which lie before us in the New Testament documents. The evidence for the early dates of these documents is ably stated, but many will feel that the author puts the first three Gospels, and especially that of Matthew, somewhat earlier than is warranted. It is quite sufficient for Dr. Nolloth's purpose that they are well within the first century. On the other hand, he makes less of the historical value of the Fourth Gospel, as compared with the others, than he need have done. On many points the Fourth Gospel is probably more accurate than the others. The early portion of the volume deals with the preparation for Christianity in Judaism, in Greek and Roman thought. From this the author passes on to consider the Incarnation, the Public Ministry, the Death, Resurrection, and Ascension of our Lord, in each case finding the evidence confirmatory of the Divine character and mission of Jesus. Further chapters deal with the Apostolic Church and the Sacraments. On the latter subject Dr. Nolloth hardly takes sufficient account of the difficulties made by recent investigation into the religion of mysticism. The closing chapters contain a summary of Pauline and Petrine doctrine. The positions maintained by the author throughout are in harmony with the creed of the Church and the faith of the Ages. The volume as a whole, bearing in mind the author's position, is an admirable survey of the early stages of the Christian religion.

COMPARATIVE RELIGION.

This handbook, published by the "S.P.C.K.," is one of the best popular statements on Comparative Religion we have come across. It is packed with the kind of information which forms the most suitable introduction to the study of this fascinating subject. Dr. Geden knows his subject thoroughly, and writes upon it in a way which can interest the beginner and also elucidate points for the more advanced student. He recognises that the science is still young, and that hasty conclusions are unwarranted. "It would seem, therefore, impossible to forecast with any degree of confidence or certainty at so early a stage in the progress of the science the results to which the study of comparative religion may attain. The conclusions already reached and the fruits of the investigations that have been conducted do not suggest finality in any given system of religion as it exists at present or may be expected to develop in the near future." He rightly points out that comparative religion is, in the first instance, an investigation into the facts of religious faith, and the religious experiences and practices of mankind. It cannot establish the absolute truth of this or that form, and has no norm of value by which to determine a scale of valuation. Christians may adopt the principle of the finality of the Christian religion, but that standard can only be acknowledged by those who are Christian. One thing, however, does emerge from this science, namely, that God has not left Himself without a witness in the hearts of men.

DEATH AND BEYOND.

The author of this booklet, Mr. E. J. Thomas, of Melbourne, writes with strong conviction against rationalistic teaching. He is nothing if not orthodox, though many who accept the Christian faith as cordially as he does himself would hesitate to adhere to some of the views here put forward. The booklet deals mainly with the meaning of death and resurrection, and Mr. Thomas has a somewhat physical conception of the latter.

OLD TESTAMENT LESSONS.

Mr. Rivers, Archdeacon of Toowoomba, has specialised in the preparation of Sunday-school lessons, and the latest volume to hand, which covers practically the whole of the Old Testament, should prove most helpful to Sunday-school teachers.

Big Ben

The Perfect Day

BIG BEN calls cheerfully—promptly at six—you leap from the bed into the tub—a clean shave—a real zest for toast and marmalade. A spring in your step as you walk to the office and plan the tasks for the day.

Pitch right into the daily work—brain so clear that the hardest task seems easy.

At night—crawl between downy covers, comfortably tired—satisfied—content. A perfect day.

Big Ben is seven inches tall, well built, handsome, punctual.

He has a big, easily-read dial—a cheerful, deep-toned voice—large, comfortable winding keys—a light running movement with watch-like escapement—an alarm that calls steadily for five minutes or intermittently for ten.

THE WESTERN FRONT.

It is well to be reminded, as we are this morning by a correspondent of the "Morning Post," that the Western front is still the decisive theatre of the war. Every discussion of peace terms rests ultimately on the progress of the Allied armies in France and Flanders. No German leader would think of conceding the terms which the Allies have stated to be their minimum as long as the invaders are in occupation of portion of France and Belgium. The blockade will be pursued vigorously with the assistance of the American embargo. The outcome of the Russian crisis will be watched with grave anxiety. But each of these facts will owe its present importance to its power of weakening the German resistance in the West. Both the extent and the importance of the territory occupied by the Germans has been greatly diminished during the past six months. They have now lost the dominating positions in which they established themselves in 1914, and almost all those which were captured during their attack on Verdun. But they still hold provinces which are indispensable to the prosperity of France, and would have to be recovered for their wealth, even if they were not inhabited by French people. In front of the army of Verdun lie the best of the French communes. In front of the Canadians at Lens lies the coal field by which the greater part of the French industries are supported. In front of the British army lie the richest manufacturing district of France, and the centres of her railway system, including the towns of Tourcoing, Roubaix, Lille, and Douai. The line of invasion into France, between the Scheldt and the Sambre is still held by German troops, who have so far resisted all attempts to attack them in flank through the Hindenburg line, or in face from the Champagne district, and the newly-won heights of the Aisne. It is obvious that a nation which holds so many hostages will not accept the fate of the conquered. The Germans may not wish to incorporate any more Frenchmen in their Empire, but they do wish to preserve a hold on Belgium, which would be fatal to Great Britain, and to retain the conquered provinces, which would mean a defeat for France. It is said, no doubt, that a victory of the Italians would bring the conclusion of peace, because it would mean the break up of the German alliance. The defeat of Austria would destroy many German hopes for the future, for it would be the road between Hamburg and the East. It would set free an Italian army and many British and French troops for service in France. But experience has shown that the Germans do not give in because the odds have accumulated against them. We can imagine that they will refuse to accept their destiny as long as they retain the prize which reminds them of their earlier victories. They may have abandoned hope that any of those victories will be repeated. But they will hold their ground in the belief that something may occur to break the purpose of the Allies, that their armies may be exhausted, that their supplies may be cut off, or that internal dissensions may compel one or other of the Allied Governments to accept a compromise.

The expulsion of the enemy may be accomplished in one of two ways, by successful turning or piercing movements or by the gradual reduction of his strength. The writer in the "Morning Post" finds evidence of the reduction in his strength in the constant use of shock troops and in the reliance on isolated cement fortifications. The tactics of holding a front line by inferior troops, and then seeking to recover lost positions by counter-attacks, are certainly those of an army which hopes to win by exhausting a superior adversary rather than by advancing or by holding its ground for ever. But the real meaning of the use of these shock troops can hardly be determined until we compare their preparation to the rest of the army and their efficiency. M. Bidon, a French military critic, told us early in the year that Hindenburg was preparing an army to be ready for an offensive in June. The army seems to have been drafted into the shock troops, from which the later critic draws his evidence of decay, and into the artillery which has been heard against both the British and the French. This new army has failed in its most important enterprise. It was intended to vindicate itself in a second attempt to crush the spirit of France and to recapture the heights of the Aisne. Neither of these objects was secured after exertions as terrible as any of those directed against Verdun. In their defence the Germans punished the French very heavily, and retained many valuable positions, such as the heights overlooking Reims, but in their offensive they failed utterly. Against the British the success of the shock troops is more difficult to estimate. If we were to suppose that Sir Douglas Haig had determined to fulfil the promises of his famous interview to the letter, the shock troops could be credited with a success. They have held up the British at many points, so that neither of the great victories, Arras, Messines, or Ypres, has been followed by any considerable gain of territory. In all the fighting since the retreat of this year the Germans have shone both by the vigour of their counter-attacks and by the speed with which they have prepared new defences. It is to be remembered, however, that the chief of the French armies is a man who has always aimed at conserving the lives of his own men, while inflicting the maximum of loss on the enemy. General Petain's theories are certain to have influenced the tactics of Sir Douglas Haig. We can well believe that he is content to depend on attacks for which his artillery can deliver a thorough preparation rather than on the prolonged series of assaults which were necessary during the Somme campaign. The moment of victory will come when the Allies have seized the dominant positions, and have attained a great numerical superiority all along the line. It may be that they will have to wait for their preponderance until the arrival of a large American army. In the meantime all experience teaches them the necessity of a great superiority in the technical arms, in aeroplanes and artillery, which can only be secured by the continued sacrifices and exertions of the Western peoples.

GOVERNMENT CONDITIONS.

It is not necessary to be in the Government's confidence to understand the conditions that must be imposed in dealing with the coal miners out on strike. The ostensible reason for the strike has disappeared in the return of the railway and tramway men to work; but the strike continues because free labour is being employed in certain mines and the Act governing coal-mining in this State has been amended to permit of this being done. To end the strike would be easy. All the Government has to do is to give the Act its original power, and so prevent any but the miners now on strike from being employed. But how about the mines in which free labour had been employed? Would they be blacklisted by the miners after returning to work? What, also, of loyal miners who have been hewing coal to help the Government? Would they be ostracised and persecuted until at last they and their families would be obliged to leave the districts in which they are now employed? It will be seen that more than one issue is raised by an apparently simple demand on the part of the miners that they shall be allowed to return to work under the old conditions. As to the future boycotting, or blacklisting, of mines worked by the Government, it would be an extraordinary thing if Ministers permitted anything of the sort. The Government would have to continue to work the mines or to indemnify the owners; and the taxpayer would have to foot the bill. Indeed the Government assumed control of all mines so that there could be no question of discrimination. Mine owners had no option. Those whose mines are being worked, therefore, are in the Government's hands; and if the strikers were allowed to return to work, free to wreak vengeance upon those whom they consider responsible for coal having reached the consuming public, the Government would have been badly defeated after winning the first rounds of a great fight. The Government might meet the strikers half way by offering to reinstate the clause in the Act upon which the miners' power recently depended, on condition that there was no victimisation. Ministers do insist as a matter of fact, that those who have been working certain mines to supply coal in an emergency shall continue therein if they so please. This implies that if they elect to leave coal-mining with the close of the strike, the mines taken over by the Government shall still be placed upon the same footing as the rest. "No victimisation" in those terms might or might not displace a certain amount of union labour, but nobody except strikers would suffer in consequence.

In this way the Act could be re-amended, the miners would return to work, and loyal workers whether unionists or other would have nothing to fear. But it is clear that the Government must insist upon the proposition in its entirety. The Act must remain in its present form to protect the loyalists and to guard the mines used by the Government. As Mr. Beeby has pointed out the amendment was made with a distinct purpose. It was announced as only to be applied in an emergency. But while the present crisis was the cause of amending the Act, the Government is bound by the original intention. When this strike is over the miners can return to work with all their rights and privileges intact; and as before they may be sure of getting the work required in hewing coal without interference or discount. But the need for a weapon against another strike must be recognised, for nothing has happened to show that the community will be safe from a further "hold up"—even while the war lasts. Past promises have not been honoured, and in the interests of the moderate and loyal-hearted men among the miners there ought to be in the Government's hands power to enter the mines and obtain coal in any future emergency. It will help to prevent another strike. Parliament might not be sitting, if the Act were re-amended and had to be altered once more. Even though it could be called together within a reasonable time the fact that all the legislative machinery would have to be put again into motion might prove an incentive to trouble. Whether or no, the reasons for preserving the position as it stands are very strong; and common sense and the public safety demand that it shall be maintained. But equally on grounds of common sense, to say nothing of fair play, the Government cannot leave either the mines taken over or the men working them in the lurch. The irreducible minimum of the Government's conditions, therefore, must be a return of the coal miners on strike to work with the Act as now amended still in force; and the aegis of the State must be thrown over all those who have stood firm in a great emergency. It may be urged, perhaps, that the Government offers nothing while demanding everything. But the offer of work under the old conditions is surely something substantial. No coal miner need lack employment. The demand for coal with stocks depleted is sure to be maintained; and when the shipbuilding programmes of the Allies are bearing fruit an indefinite supply of fuel must be found if our wheat, wool, and dairy produce are to get to Europe. With this strike well settled we may safely put our backs into the task of producing everything possible, and no able-bodied man in the State need lack employment. It will, of course, depend upon the mental attitude of those concerned. If after the strike is over there are still restlessness and dissatisfaction it will be because disloyalty once more paralyses industry. Nothing in the conditions discussed above could warrant a sense of hopeless defeat among the coal miners, for they can return to work at the same rates of pay, the same hours, and with all the fruits of their last victory in hand. But they must not strike again—that will be the penalty remaining as the result of the present strike.

"HIDE-BOUND UNION RULES."

JUDGE HEYDON'S COMMENTS.

Judgment was delivered by Mr. Justice Heydon in the Industrial Court yesterday on an application to cancel the registration of the New South Wales branch of the Amalgamated Society of Engineers.

In this case a rule had been granted on the application of the Minister for Labour calling upon the union to show cause why its registration should not be cancelled, on the ground, among others, that eight roll-turners employed at the Broken Hill Proprietary's steel works at Port Waratah, near Newcastle, had ceased work in contempt of the Court, in order to enforce certain demands with respect to the employment of a foreman over roll-turners, and that the union had not restrained them from continuing the strike.

In deciding against the union, his Honor said there was no reason why the engineers' turners should not do the work. There was ample for them and for the eight roll-turners to do. They did not feel the slightest hesitation in taking the work, nor did the Amalgamated Society in allowing them to take it till the roll-turners complained. "The effect of the stoppage," said his Honor, "was to strangle the efforts of the company to enlarge its operations and give increased employment, and to hamper it in its very valuable work for Australia and the Empire. The attitude taken up by the roll-turners would, if successful, result in preserving to them for perhaps a long time a monopoly of work which they are too few to do—a monopoly very profitable to them and very injurious to their mates and to the industry and to the country. In these circumstances it seems idle to me to talk of a fundamental rule of unionism being attacked, though I must do the Amalgamated Society the justice of saying that, as far as I can see, that must be the view which they take. The roll-turners are treating the society very badly. They are to a certain extent an alien element, yet, while they have demanded help from the society, they have broken its rules, disregarded its wishes, and played the dog-in-the-manger by its members. There is more roll-turning to be done than they can themselves do, yet they wish another of their scanty number to be thrown out of production by being appointed foreman, though an engineer's turner could fill the position perfectly well. Then, putting their paws on the excess work which they cannot do themselves, they snarl away the engineers' turners who would and could do it.

"It is but fair to the Amalgamated members to say that in yielding to this most selfish and intolerable claim they do not themselves appear to be actuated by selfish motives, but they seem to be as unable to look into the essentials of a situation, and to understand when rules should and when they should not be applied, as the scrupulously conventional gentlemen who would not save a drowning man because he had never been introduced to him. I have often heard monopoly, and I have often heard hidebound conservatism, justly attacked, and I have rarely come across a stronger instance of both than is afforded in this case. A titled author once wrote, in lines whose exquisite silliness has kept them alive,

'Let laws and learning, arts and commerce die;
But leave us still our old nobility.'

"Human nature is the same in all cases. The Amalgamated Society of Engineers say a thing just as foolish—'Let employment be lessened; let industry be hobbled; let Germany be helped; let Australia be hamstrung; but leave us still our hide-bound union rules.'"

PUBLIC SERVICE.

ROYAL COMMISSION OPENS.

The Royal Commission appointed to inquire into the public service of New South Wales held its formal opening sitting in the Assembly Hall at the Education Building yesterday. The commissioner is Mr. G. Mason Allard, with the following assessors, representing the Public Service Board and the four divisions in the Public Service:—Messrs. W. D. Loveridge (Public Service Board), J. H. Carruthers (Clerical Division Officers), T. T. Roberts (Educational Division Officers), and R. S. Littlejohn (Professional Division Officers), C. J. Abigail (General Division Officers). There was a large attendance, representative of various branches of the Public Service.

The secretary, Mr. L. Deer, read the commission, and also letters from the Government appointing the assessors, and outlining their duties.

The Commissioner said the duties of the Commission were cast on broad lines, being to inquire generally as to the efficiency or otherwise of the Public Service, and as to the best methods to adopt to secure greater efficiency with economy. The subject appeared to be open to inquiry from three particular aspects—one from the point of view of the public as to whether it was receiving from the several departments good, efficient, and prompt service, and at a reasonable cost; the second from the outlook and experience of the Administration as to whether the Constitution under which they acted was liberal enough, and whether the authority and powers with which they were clothed were sufficient for the due regulation of the machine, and whether the organisation was such as to make for efficiency and economy, and for the continuance of these qualities; while the third was from the standpoint of the Public Service employee as to whether the conditions under which he or she worked and lived were fair, and the reward adequate. In respect to the public aspect it was possible that some members of the general public might wish to bring the matter before the Commission, and they were invited to do so if their evidence had a bearing upon principles within the scope of the inquiry.

Several applications had been sent in from various staff associations, asking that certain gentlemen be permitted to appear before the commission as special representatives on behalf of such associations, with the right to interrogate witnesses. Apparently these had been forwarded under a misconception as to the machinery provided by the Government. Assessors or special representatives for the several divisions of the service had been appointed, and it would be their duty to act in the way of counsel for their respective divisions. Such associations as had made application for special representation could no doubt act as advisory committees to the assessors on the lines laid down by the Government. There was no desire to exclude anything that could be helpful to the commission.

The commission then adjourned till next Monday week.

EMPLOYERS AND THE STRIKE.

VIEWS OF MANUFACTURERS.

It was but natural that strike matters should be given prominence at the annual meeting of the New South Wales Chamber of Manufactures, which was held at the rooms, Palmouth-chambers, yesterday afternoon. Mr. W. T. Willington (president) was in the chair.

In their 22nd annual report, the council stated:—

"When we submitted our last report we confidently anticipated that before another year had passed the dreadful life-and-death struggle would be over, but, unfortunately, it is still waging, with its fearful loss of life and destruction of property, and though the entrance of America into the war on the side of the Allies assures the certainty of ultimate victory, still no one can foretell when the day of victory shall dawn. Our duty is still to strain every nerve to help the Empire achieve a decisive victory, but notwithstanding that, it is lamentable to consider that while the Empire is engaged in a death struggle, when every man and every shilling are needed to secure ultimate victory, a strike, which originated with the New South Wales railway workers, and which promises to extend to all Australia, is holding up the industries of the State, and is blocking the sailing of transports and supplies needed by our men at the front. Started on the flimsiest of pretexts, the present strike is really a rebellion against the Government and a treason against the Empire, and it seems almost incredible that Australian workers should so far forget their duty to the country in this crisis as to enter into a strike which must gladden the hearts of the Huns. The one bright feature in the whole sordid affair is the way in which the public are assisting the Government, whose firmness and tact are deserving of the highest praise. . . . By organisation the unions have defied and flouted the law; we must organise for its preservation. The more highly organised any association or number of associations become, the more powerful and effective they are, and if we are to prevent the Commonwealth being thrown again into a state of siege, and an attempt made to close down its industries, we must organise, and organise efficiently. Your council hopes to submit to you in the near future, a fairly comprehensive scheme for your consideration."

PRESIDENT'S ADDRESS.

In moving the adoption of the report, the president said that the war was obtaining a stranglehold over the whole earth, with the result that the pre-war normal conditions of commerce and manufacturing had been completely disrupted. Even with a victorious termination of the war, considerable time must elapse before business could resume its old channels. The rebuilding of destroyed factories, the return of workmen to their previous occupations, the adjustment of the relations of female labour, and the still greater problem of the fitness to labour of those returning from the war, must create a very serious and probably acute position. Many characteristics of present trading customs would become obsolete. Its present individualistic methods might be largely changed. Co-ordination, probably with Government control in certain directions, would introduce changed conditions, with new environments and altered arrangements affecting our local relations, as well as those beyond the seas. Among the most important problems might be mentioned our financial position as a result of war expenditure. The interest to be raised, together with normal outgoings, would seriously tax our efforts for many years, and would require the highest productive results in our trading to supply the necessary means. Our social labour conditions must be revised to prevent the paralysing unrest in order that the course of business might be constant and reliable. The training of our young people to develop their personal abilities, instead of letting them drift into an aimless and unskilful future, was most important, both for present and future generations of workers. Repatriation offered a most complex problem, but we were bound to see that every soldier who returned to the land for which he had offered all that a human being could offer, his life, should not want either for the means of re-establishing himself with an avocation or for support where unable to do so. Manufacturers were prepared to do their utmost to assist in this great cause. (Applause.)

"Our arbitration system, whether through defect in the Acts or administration," Mr. Willington went on to say, "has been not only an expensive luxury, but an absolute failure also, if we are to judge by the many occasions in which it has absolutely failed to control circumstances. (Hear, hear.) It has fostered the unskilful at the expense of the skilful worker, and has been a prime cause of increased cost of living by legalising wages not based upon productive capacity, but simply on trade calling. It has been a trite saying that we were in the melting pot. At the present time that pot is boiling over with revolutionary unrest fostered by socialistic doctrines of destruction, instead of construction. In all this there may be some cyclical change taking place leading to ultimate good, but as sober-minded men it is our duty to take hold of the fundamental principles underlying these changes, and spare no effort to mould a saner condition in the hearts and minds of our people. Employers, too, will find upon consideration that tangible reasons may exist for taking stock of their position. Efficiency does not necessarily mean speeding-up, nor sweating of the workman, but is more correctly a saving of wasted energy. To this end employers and employees are called upon to recast their present relations, and recognise that only by mutual co-operation can they successfully achieve their primary object of satisfactorily producing and supplying the requirements of their customer, the public. The competitive struggles of the nations involved in the war to recover lost trade will be of the keenest character. We, in Australia, must be prepared fully to develop our valuable assets economically and efficiently, or find them filched away by others better able and willing to make full use of them. If we have not with us the very best skill procurable at the present time, we must get it, and get it quickly. There is no harm in admitting a lack of scientific and technical efficiency; it is the first step towards improving and building up our business operations able to cope with the best from outside.

"The difficulty of freight accommodation is also a very important feature, and warrants the endeavour to provide shipping from our own yards." (Applause.)

Concluding, Mr. Willington said that, whilst the manufacturers were ready to assist the Government in any way possible in the present crisis, and were only awaiting the call, their assistance had not yet been sought—"thanks to the strong body of men who have at last been able to take up the challenge." (Applause.)

Mr. A. D. Walker (vice-president) seconded the motion for the adoption of the report, and in doing so paid a high tribute to Mr. Willington's work as president.

In supporting the motion, Mr. T. J. Hitchman said that if Australia was ever to be a great nation it must be self-supporting. (Hear, hear.) He thought it was by co-operation that they would reap the reward of their efforts. There must be a little less selfishness and a little more desire to help one another. He referred to the great increase that had taken place in wages, but said that no one objected to paying the increased wages provided the men earned it. (Applause.)

Mr. J. G. Farleigh, M.L.C., commented on the change that had taken place in recent years regarding Australian manufactures. There was to-day a greater evidence of loyalty and patriotism among the consuming public in regard to this matter than was the case a few years ago. (Hear, hear.) He did not wish to discuss the strike beyond saying that Mr. Fuller and his colleagues were handling the situation with conspicuous ability. (Applause.)

Mr. W. Williamson said that there could be no notice that should make a better appeal to the patriotism of the workers than "Win the war," and yet there were men who would not even help to build the necessary ships.

At the invitation of the president, Mr. James Martyn, a member of the Victorian Chamber, addressed the meeting. He said he was glad that we had in New South Wales a Government that was able to stand up and give a lead to Australia. He wished he could say as much for "the little, so-called Liberal Government of Victoria." Proceeding, he said: "This is no mere strike; it is a rebellion against every right and proper principle that should lie at the root of self-government. A democracy is one of the finest things in the world, if it be a disciplined democracy, but if it be undisciplined, it is nothing but a rabble. We are fighting a spirit of revolt. We are to-day defying the men who have been fostering this spirit for the last 25 years. (Hear, hear.) They have been sowing the wind, and now they are reaping the whirlwind. I am glad to see that many of those who have been giving voluntary service in this crisis are forming unions of their own." In conclusion, Mr. Martyn said he would like to see greater co-operation between the employers of Australia.

Votes of thanks were accorded the president and the secretary, Mr. W. J. Donnelly. Messrs. G. T. Clarke and E. C. Barry were re-elected auditors.

"BLACK" COAL.

A DOCTRINE OF ANARCHY.

"A doctrine of anarchy which reduces the community to a chaos of warring atoms," was how Judge Rolin yesterday described the principle under which unions refused to handle materials which are declared "black."

The de-registration of the Gas Employees' Union was applied for by the Australian Gas-light Company, Limited, in the No. 2 Industrial Court.

Mr. Curtis, instructed by Messrs. Allen, Allen, and Hemsley, appeared for the gas company; and Mr. M. J. Connington for the union, which was summoned to show cause why its registration should not be cancelled. An application for the rescission of the Gas Makers' Group No. 2 (Metropolitan) award, was also on the list, but Mr. Curtis stated that it was not intended to proceed with this at present, and asked that it might stand over generally.

Mr. Curtis read an affidavit showing that the gas employees were on strike, having refused to handle coal got by non-union labour.

Mr. Connington asked for an adjournment. The union, he said, was to hold a meeting next day to consider the general situation. The union, as a union, had not dealt with the question yet.

His Honor: No doubt members of the union have brought about a state of affairs detrimental to the community. This doctrine of "black goods" is a doctrine of absolute anarchy. As Mr. Justice Heydon has pointed out, it is a farcical doctrine, as well as a most mischievous one. The strikers will not handle "black" goods, but they eat "black" food. The whole business of the community is being carried on by volunteer labour, which brings food to the strikers themselves.

Mr. Connington: That is undeniable.

Mr. Curtis strongly opposed an adjournment. Any decision the men might come to at a future meeting would not affect what they had already done. Mr. Connington's statement that the union as a union had not considered the matter was in absolute conflict with the statement from the union secretary, which had been published in the press.

In granting the adjournment till Monday, his Honor said there seemed no doubt that the members of the union under the aegis of the secretary had decided on a most mischievous course, that of partially depriving the city and its inhabitants, as far as by their conduct they could, of one of the most essential things, the gas supply. They had done this most mischievous thing in pursuance of what practically amounted to a scheme of almost a general strike. They struck not because they had any quarrel with their employers, but because they refused to handle "black" coal—coal provided by men who did not belong to the privileged class known as unionists. This was an impossible doctrine. The smallest strike could in that way be made to spread over the whole of the community. In this particular case the coal miners had no quarrel whatever of their own. They had themselves, by means of strike, most improperly, some time ago, obtained conditions which probably they would not have received in the ordinary course. They had promised in consideration of this not to go on strike, but they chose to break the promise. Then it was said that the whole community must go without coal until the miners' demand, which was the demand of another union, and as far as his Honor could see, a most improper demand, had been satisfied.

His Honor added that he would adjourn the matter to give the union an opportunity of calmly considering their position. At the meeting next day the men might see fit to repent of conduct that was anti-social and contrary to the welfare of the community, and in that case it might be that the discretion of the Court in exercising the power given it in such circumstances would be affected.

LIGHT AND POWER.

MORNING GAS PERMITTED.

At the conclusion of a sitting of the Gas Emergency Board yesterday, the secretary, Mr. Spencer Woodham, stated that after receiving reports as to the efficiency of the loyalist workers at Mortlake gasworks, the board decided to allow again the gas supplied by the Australian Gas-Light Company, Ltd., to be used for lighting, cooking, and heating purposes in private houses and boarding-houses between the hours of 5 a.m. and 8 a.m., as well as between 5 p.m. and 10.30 p.m. Apart from the production of power, in regard to which there are no restrictions, the only purposes for which gas supplied by this company may be used, are as follows:—Lighting, heating, and cooking purposes in private houses and boarding-houses between the hours of 5 a.m. and 8 a.m. and between the hours of 5 p.m. and 10.30 p.m.; public lighting, lighting, heating, and cooking in institutions for the relief and care of the sick; heating purposes in connection with the production of newspapers; the professional purposes of registered medical practitioners and dental surgeons; other purposes by persons who have, by application to the board, obtained special exemptions in writing from the terms of the prohibitions.

Mr. Woodham added that no alterations had been made in the restrictions on the use of gas supplied by the North Shore Gas Company, viz., the use of gas is prohibited in hotels, restaurants, shops, boarding-houses, and private houses, except between the hours of 5 a.m. and 8 a.m., and between the hours of 5 p.m. and 10.30 p.m.

ROYAL COMMISSION.

CHARGES BY MR. PRICE, M.L.A.

It was stated in Parliament last night that the Government, at the request of Mr. Ashford, Minister for Lands, had decided to appoint a Royal Commission to inquire into charges made during a speech in Parliament by Mr. R. A. Price, M.L.A. for Gloucester. In all probability the commission will be issued to a District Court Judge, and the sitting will be begun with as little delay as possible.

The charges made by the member for Gloucester are contained in a speech delivered, in committee, on the discussion of the Estimates of expenditure of the Department of Lands, dealing particularly with the purchase of sawmills. During the course of his remarks Mr. Price said:—

I want to point out that we are getting into a very dangerous system, when items are jockeyed from one department to another. In answer to a specific question asked by me, the Minister distinctly stated that this transaction had not been completed. Now we are told that it has been completed. I complain of the way in which the accounts are bolstered up and falsified. My charge is that the Forestry estimates are absolutely wrong, inasmuch as they do not correctly disclose the affairs of the department. These accounts are supposed to be so clear that the man in the street can understand them, but far from being clear the House and the country is being deceived by a deliberate system of jockeying. These estimates, I submit, are false, and not in accordance with the books of the department.

Mr. Edden: That is a serious charge.

Mr. Price: Yes, and a true one. I repeat that the account was transferred from the City Bank at Gloucester to a private account, and authority was given to a private citizen to operate upon it.

Mr. Edden: Is the hon. member prepared to prove it?

Mr. Price: Absolutely, and the sooner the facts are disclosed to the public, the better that they may thoroughly understand what the position is, the better it will be. I might explain to hon. members how the information came into my possession. The gentleman who carried the papers relating to the transaction dropped them on the roadside. They were picked up, and before the originals were returned typewritten copies were made. I have a copy here. . . . When the facts are disclosed there will not be one decent man on either side of the House who will not cry "shame," not one decent citizen called upon to pay the piper, who will not say a blunder has been committed. . . . The whole transaction was carried out behind the back of Parliament, and a fraud has been committed, inasmuch as an excess price was paid for the property. If only the Government will grant me the inquiry I desire we shall be able to clear up the matter, when I am sure the truth of my statements will be proved. . . . I shall reserve my further remarks against the putrid and dishonest administration that has been adopted for a future time, when I shall, either by motion of adjournment or other forms of the House, bring up the whole question.

After Mr. Grahame, Minister for Agriculture, had replied on behalf of Mr. Ashford, who was away in the country, Mr. Price added: "I have made no charges with regard to the Minister that I cannot substantiate. The charges made by me are deliberately made."

PARLIAMENT.

AND THE WAR.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

It is generally understood that the Federal Ministry, in deciding upon only a short adjournment of Parliament from this month till November, was influenced by the serious developments in Russia.

From the conversations in the lobbies tonight, it was ascertained that it might be necessary to call Parliament together at any time if the war situation becomes more serious.

Some members of the Ministerial party are known to hold strong views on the question of the introduction of a bill providing for a second conscription referendum, and it is possible that pressure in this direction may be brought to bear on Ministers if the situation on the Russian front does not improve.

WAR NOTES.

KERENSKY CLAIMS SUCCESS.

While it must be remembered that Kerensky has complete control of the means of communication with the outside world, and can frame his messages without fear of denial, it would appear from the news published this morning that General Korniloff's army has collapsed before he was able to strike a blow. Kerensky distinctly states that the mutiny has "ended in complete failure," and also refers to its "bloodless liquidation." If this is a fair statement of fact, it cannot mean anything else than that the desertions in Korniloff's ranks were not over-estimated in Kerensky's earlier statement, and that the lack of the late Commander-in-Chief's supporters have left him to escape from his awkward predicament as best he can. This, of course, is only one side of the question, and Kerensky has much to gain by convincing the Russian people and the Russian armies that Korniloff's cause is a lost one. The Russian soldier has recently proved himself to be a weak reed to lean upon, but one is inclined to credit Korniloff with possessing sufficient sense to make sure of the material which was to assist him to put his plans into effect. If, as Kerensky states, Korniloff's revolt has been speedily crushed without recourse to bloodshed, Russia has been rescued from a very nasty position. We have yet, however, to hear the reason Korniloff's supporters so suddenly faded into thin air, and, until we receive definite proof of his loss of power, we can only hope that the disaster of civil war has been avoided. Even if Korniloff's plan has failed, it may have served a useful purpose in assisting Russia towards a better understanding of the task which lies ahead of her.

ON THE SHORE OF LAKE OCHRIDA.

The only fighting area in which any pronounced movement is reported this morning is that in the lake region near the Southern Albanian border, where the French and Russian troops are still driving before them the weak Bulgarian forces which they encountered a few days ago away down near the Devoli River, on the western side of Malik Lake. The French and Russians, who seem greatly to outnumber the enemy, have made a most rapid advance along the western road, and have now reached its terminus at Pogradec, on the south-western shore of Lake Ochrida. At Pogradec the metalled main road ends, but a track runs round the edge of the lake. The enemy, who has no doubt improved this track recently, has fallen back along that portion of it which leads northward along the straight western shore of Lake Ochrida. The French and Russians have followed him for a distance of about two and a half miles, and have probably reached the village of Memelishte. It will now be interesting to see whether they will continue their pursuit of the enemy along this western side of the lake, or whether they will turn their attention to the southern and south-eastern sides of Lake Ochrida. This same track along which they are pursuing the enemy on the western side of the lake, takes a bend to the eastward at Pogradec, and follows the southern shore of the lake, eventually turning north again along the eastern shore. At the south-eastern side of the lake it is joined by a track which leads across to the eastern main road near Lake Prespa, which the Bulgarians are holding, some miles to the southward. If the French and Russians are in sufficient strength they may attempt a move in this direction towards the Bulgarian rear. The speed with which these forces have advanced shows that General Sarrail has concentrated many more troops in this out-of-the-way region than the enemy expected he would, and has sprung a sudden surprise upon them. Whether any bigger move is to follow this activity on his left flank or not we have no means of telling, but the operation of clearing the enemy from these roads leading towards the Allied rear through the lake district is interesting in itself, and has certainly progressed most satisfactorily up to the present.

THE SUBMARINE CAMPAIGN.

The Admiralty's figures relating to the submarine campaign, which appear this morning, reveal the interesting fact that the enemy during the week under review secured fewer victims amongst the big British oversea vessels than he did in any previous week since the Admiralty commenced to issue these returns in February last. He has certainly achieved more success against the smaller vessels than he has for the past nine or ten weeks, but this fact does not detract from the brighter outlook revealed by the falling-off in the number of losses amongst vessels of over 1600 tons. While the actual loss of tonnage is not revealed we have only a rough idea of the real progress of the campaign; but as far as the figures themselves are concerned, there certainly seems to be some justification for the optimism recently displayed by Mr. Lloyd George. The graph of sinkings to which we referred last week would show an additional peak at the week prior to that at present under review, but it is a matter for satisfaction that these peaks have gradually decreased since the phenomenal rise in April and May last. Another satisfactory feature of this morning's figures is the increase in the number of arrivals and sailings, the latest total being higher than on any previous occasion during the past seven weeks. The fact that the Italians report no losses at all shows that the enemy has also had a slack week in the Mediterranean. There are many causes governing this fluctuation of the enemy's submarine successes, and it is difficult to say to which particular one the present decline is due. It would, however, be surprising disappointment to conclude that the present low rate of sinkings is likely to be maintained for any length of time, and a further rise must be expected as Germany increases her efforts and repairs the weaknesses in her system caused by the successes of the Allied patrol boats and the delays occasioned in repairing and refitting the under-water fleet.

SEEKING THE REMEDY.

Until the Allies discover an effective weapon or method for combating the under-water craft, the enemy will continue to send a number of merchantmen to the bottom each week. That such a weapon is being anxiously sought was shown by an interview given by Mr. Arthur Pollen, the well-known naval expert, during a recent visit to the United States of America. Mr. Pollen stated that the two great assets brought to the cause of the Allies by the entrance of the United States into the war were:—(1) The power of America to remedy the early blunder of England in not making the blockade against the enemy effective; and (2) the potential power of America to devise, by its naval inventive genius, the method or weapon, or both, to destroy the submarine. "When asked what he had in the back of his mind," says the New York "Times," he said that he had in mind some sort of craft that would be in this war what the Monitor proved to be in the naval operations of the Civil War in the United States when she defeated the Merrimac—some good craft, plus a big operating plan for its effective use. 'This puzzle of the submarine,' he said, 'is the master question of the war. To a great extent, the navies of England and France have been defeated, as far as the U-boat is concerned. . . . None of the instruments and none of the methods now in use can enable us to win. They are all useful, and must be increased in number, but it is not merely a case of more of this and more of that. It is a case of more destroyers, more chasers, more nets and hydroplanes and convoys, more of everything we now have, plus the one big thing which we have not. That big thing, the winning thing, may be a new system of naval operations, a new type of craft—probably a combination of both—and we look to the American Navy for it. . . . 'The hope of the Allies is in the past record of the American Navy to find the new way—for example, the successor to the Monitor. . . . We want this new sort of craft as yet unplanned, and with it we want an entirely new system of operation that will enable us to do effective work close in shore, at fortified places and submarine bases, that will make the egress or return of U-boats impossible.'"

RUSSIAN CRISIS.

KERENSKY AS ARMY COMMANDER.

DECLARES REVOLT A FAILURE.

KORNILOFF NEARING PETROGRAD.

LONDON, Sept. 13.

The news from Russia is meagre, and throws little light on the situation that has developed as a result of General Korniloff (late Commander-in-Chief) attempting to overthrow the Provisional Government.

One late report says that General Korniloff's armies are now approaching Petrograd.

The Russian Government is exercising a strict censorship.

A wireless message from Petrograd states that M. Kerensky, as Prime Minister and Commander-in-Chief, has issued the following statement:—

"In accordance with a decision of the Provisional Government I have been charged with the office of the Chief Command of the Army.

"The senseless attempt at mutiny by the late Commander-in-Chief and a small group of generals has ended in complete failure. The mutineers will be delivered to a military revolutionary tribunal.

"The bloodless liquidation of the mutiny shows the wisdom of the people, the army, and the fleet, who were loyal to the Fatherland and to the legal Government.

"To Russia's armed forces I declare my complete faith in all ranks of the army and fleet. Everyone, whether general or soldier, will be punished for the slightest disobedience. It is time to cease playing with the country's fate."

GENERAL MARTIAL LAW.

The Provisional Government has proclaimed general martial law.

STRENGTH OF KORNILOFF.

The Russian situation, according to telegrams received in London on Thursday morning, continues grave and obscure.

The following generals are supporting General Korniloff:—

General Denikine, commanding on the South-west front.

General Klembovsky, Northern front.

General Valuyoff, Western front.

General Lukhomsky, Chief of the Headquarters Staff.

M. Kislinkoff, Assistant Minister for Communications.

Generals Kaledine (Cossack Commander) Markoff, and Erdelli, are also supporting the revolt.

It is believed that General Alexieff is striving to promote a reunion. He will possibly become Chief-of-Staff if M. Kerensky remains Commander-in-Chief.

The Cadet party has vainly endeavoured to mediate between M. Kerensky and General Korniloff, but the Soldiers' and Workmen's Council has refused mediation.

General Korniloff's latest proclamation affirms that his only desire is to drag his country from the existing impasse. He swears that he will only hold a dictatorship until a constitutional assembly meets.

APPROACHING PETROGRAD.

General Korniloff's three forces are converging from Narva, Pskoff, and Moscow, and are now within a few miles of Petrograd.

A "MILITARY COMMITTEE."

The Russian Provisional Military Committee has issued a statement by wireless, announcing that a workmen's militia has been organised in Petrograd, and that numerous further arrests had been made there.

The statement adds: The state of mind of General Korniloff's soldiers near Luga (85 miles south-west of Petrograd) is unsettled. A majority of the troops at the front support the Government.

The committee has created new departments for the following purposes:—

Supplying the needs of the army.

Creating a bond between regimental and district committees.

The defence of Petrograd.

"A strategical department."

GERMANY'S INTEREST.

The German newspapers are giving prominence to Russian telegrams, and are anxiously looking for developments in favour of Germany's interests.

"Vorwaerts" suggests that the Duma is sympathising with Korniloff's demands.

THE UKRANIANS.

A Petrograd message states:—The Secretariat to the Ukranian Parliament appeals to all military Ukranians to support the Provisional Government, and declares that General Korniloff's victory would bring Russian democracy under subjection and Ukraine under a new enslavement.

SERIOUS SITUATION.

Telegrams received in New York from Petrograd show that M. Kerensky has issued statements describing the internal situation as more serious than anticipated. The Government unanimously favours decisive measures. The people support the Government, and have complete faith in the triumph of its cause.

The New York "World" says that General Korniloff is more likely to be known in history as a rebel than a Dictator.

THE RIGA BATTLE.

A German official message on Wednesday stated:—We repulsed Russian reconnoitring parties between the Baltic and the Dwina. The total captures in the Riga battle comprise 8000 prisoners, 325 cannon, several trains, and other booty.

BULGARIAN QUEEN DEAD.

The death is announced of the Queen of Bulgaria. She was the second wife of King Ferdinand, and was Princess Eleonore of Reuss-Kostritz.

NO ITALIAN LOSSES.

An Italian official message states that for the week ended September 9 the arrivals of vessels in Italian ports numbered 344, and the departures 460. The losses were nil.

AMERICAN ACTIVITY

STIMULATED BY PEACE PROPAGANDA.

Officials in Washington state that Germany is endeavouring to organise a peace propaganda in the United States in order to delay America's war preparations, but the Government will redouble its efforts.

Dr. Baez, a former President of Paraguay, has evidence that Germany had planned a war for the conquest of Latin America, preparatory to fighting the United States.

Bogus cablegrams recording pro-German news and specially prepared letters to newspaper syndicates have been intercepted in New York.

The Senate has passed a bill providing for the conscription of aliens, with the exception of those exempted by treaty.

The bill provides for the conscription of Germans, Austrians, Bulgarians, and Turks, for non-fighting services.

Lord Reading has arrived in New York. He is head of the British Finance Committee visiting America.

The Senate has passed an Act prohibiting trading with the enemy, and providing that newspapers using a foreign language shall print an English translation in a parallel column.

ALLIES' CREDIT SAVED.

LONDON, Sept. 12.

At a luncheon held by the Empire Parliamentary Association, in honour of Mr. M'Cormick, an American Congressman, Mr. Bonar Law (Chancellor of the Exchequer) said that the Allies were relying upon America with good reason. He, as Chancellor of the Exchequer, was prepared to say what he should have been sorry to say six months ago, namely, that, without the aid of the United States, the financial position of the Allies would have been most disastrous. The British and American people should understand that victory is now a question of nerves and staying power.

ITALIANS ATTACKED.

ISONZO BATTLES.

An Italian communique issued on Wednesday stated:—

We repulsed attacks on Bainsizza Plateau and north-east of Gorizia.

After a bitter struggle we repulsed attacks on the crest of the western slope of Mount St. Gabriele (north-east of Gorizia).

NATIONAL SERVICE.

TO AFFECT ALL BRITISH MEN.

The British Minister for National Service is preparing a scheme affecting all males between 18 and 60 years of age.

FRENCH POLITICAL UNREST.

SOCIALISTS' WILD DEMANDS.

It was announced from Paris late on Wednesday night that M. Painleve (ex-Minister for War), who was asked to form a Government when M. Ribot failed to reconstruct his Cabinet, and who abandoned the task when the Socialists objected to M. Ribot joining the new body as Minister for Foreign Affairs, has decided to ignore the Socialists and form a Cabinet.

M. Ribot will remain in the Cabinet as Foreign Minister. The Socialists' objection to him arises out of their demand that the Allies should publish all treaties and put an end to secret diplomacy, as necessary conditions for a lasting peace, free from all annexations.

The Socialists also demand that civil delegates should be sent to the various armies, to represent the Government. Other demands include the exploitation by the State of the national resources. They say that the Government should be endowed with extensive powers to requisition articles required for the purposes of war.

The unreasonable nature of many of the Socialists' demands has aroused anger in political circles. It is pointed out that the French Socialists are copying the methods of the Russian Soldiers' and Workmen's Council, whose interference with the Russian army produced disaster.

ANOTHER YEAR OF WAR.

MR. HOLMAN'S PREDICTION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 12.

Mr. Holman has had many invitations to remain in America for a few weeks, and deliver addresses on Australia. He has not yet decided whether he will accept the offer.

In the course of an interview Mr. Holman said that he believed that the war would last another year. The submarines would not be a decisive factor in ending the war. The loss of shipping due to the operation of submarines was greater than the construction of ships to replace the loss, but the number being destroyed was lessening as time went on, and he believed that within but a short time the construction would overtake the losses. Britain was bending all energies to winning the war, and everywhere in the old country there was a feeling of confident determination in regard to it.

Mr. Holman may informally discuss with United States officials the future of Australian-American trade.

The New York railway managers entertained Mr. Holman and Mr. H. C. Hoyle (ex-Minister for Railways in New South Wales, now on a holiday trip). The latter is investigating improvements in railway systems, and will visit Chicago and other centres. Mr. Holman explained the labour situation, claiming that Australia had made a valuable contribution to the settlement of industrial problems.

Mr. Holman will prolong his visit, and will go to Washington.

WESTERN FRONT.

AERIAL ACTIVITY.

LONDON, Sept. 13.

The communiques report only minor operations. There has been great aerial activity.

BRITISH.

WEDNESDAY, ISSUED 12.30 P.M.

We repulsed the enemy who attacked this morning east of Hargicourt. We successfully raided north-east of Bullecourt and southward of Lombartsyde.

THURSDAY, ISSUED 1.15 A.M.

Patrol encounters north-west of St. Quentin and in the Ypres sector yielded prisoners.

Great aerial activity prevailed yesterday, with continuous and successful artillery and photographic work. In the daytime we dropped 281 bombs at various targets, including two aerodromes south of Lille, and two aerodromes and a large ammunition dump at Rouel. At night time we dropped 80 bombs on railway station, ammunition dumps, and trains, at Courtrai, making a total of six tons.

Fighting has also been vigorous. Our patrols encountered strong formations. They brought down eight enemy machines and drove down 12. Eight of ours are missing.

FRENCH.

WEDNESDAY, ISSUED 4.10 P.M.

The artillery struggle has been continued in Belgium, and is most lively in the sectors at Driegachten and Bixschoote.

We carried out two successful raids in the Champagne, north-east of Auberive, and east of the St. Hilaire-St. Souplet road, where we penetrated the enemy's third line. We killed or captured the whole of the garrison in the course of a lively engagement. We blew up many dugouts and brought back much material.

An enemy attempt a few miles further east, north-east of Tahure, failed under our fire, with serious enemy losses.

We repulsed two attacks on our advanced posts at Verdun, north of Caurieres Wood, and north of Besonvaux.

Enemy aeroplanes bombed Dunkirk. There were several victims among civilians.

GERMAN.

WEDNESDAY, ISSUED 6 P.M.

We repulsed a French advance astride the Somme-Py-Souain road.

We brought down 19 enemy aviators.

GERMAN CONCRETE.

TAKING PLACE OF INFANTRY.

Though there have been no major operations on the British front, the local fighting is continuous. The "Morning Post" correspondent describes a typical affair, arising out of a German attempt to retake Inverness Copse by means of "storm troops."

The Germans, he says, are no longer able to rely on the ordinary line regiments to assault the British lines, and the necessity for "storm troops" is a most striking proof of the decadence of the army. The bulk of the Germans are only fit to hold a multitude of concrete forts, with which the Hindenburg line and the farms of Flanders are studded. While the picked "storm troops" enter the barrage the infantry remain idle in their trenches and craters. Frequently the infantry afterwards lose the position the "storm troops" have won, resulting in recriminations and an exchange of angry taunts between different branches of the German army.

The attack on Inverness Copse was carefully planned and rehearsed by Bavarian stormers, supported by flame machines. The ground had been accurately surveyed from aeroplane photographs. The Bavarian charge secured a few small trenches, but our ordinary troops, counter-attacking a few hours later, quickly flung them out. Such incidents convince our men that they are more than a match for the best German infantry.

General von Arnim is industriously training his Fourth Army, opposite Ypres, in the new, open warfare, which has developed from the shellhole system of defence. The Germans are being accustomed to live on the naked battlefield, with only a strip of canvas cloth across a shellhole to screen them from aerial observations.

The desire of the Germans to hide in deep dugouts is being remorselessly killed in the training camps. The men are taught to transform a shallow crater into a machine-gun refuge and to festoon in it with wire under the very eyes of the enemy. Even the gunners are forced to leave their cemented pits and take up unprotected positions, which are quickly changed if the British artillery finds them out.

General von Arnim is also covering the new battlefields with concrete. He is transforming farmhouses into forts, and dotting "pill boxes" over the ridges and valleys behind the present front. Our guns are constantly playing upon working parties, which are bringing steel rails and girders from the wooden tramways. Some of the heaviest "pill boxes" resist the largest shells. Concrete is the backbone of the German army to-day, and has taken the place of infantry.

AEROPLANE DOWNED.

An Amsterdam report states that British airmen brought down a German aeroplane off Terschelling. It fell into the sea.

GERMANY AND PEACE.

POSSIBLE TERMS.

The Hamburg "Fremdenblatt" states:—The Belgian question will occupy an important place in Germany's reply to the Pope's Peace Note, but before Germany explains her intentions regarding Belgium the Entente must agree to the following basic peace conditions:—

The abandonment of any intention of crushing Germany.

No reparation for damage done by war.

The abandonment of France's claim to Alsace-Lorraine.

No dismemberment of Germany's allies.

A recognition by the Entente that Germany did not cause the war.

CAUCASIAN FRONT.

TURKS REPORT ACTIVITY.

A Turkish official message states:—Enemy activity has increased on the entire Caucasian front.

RAPID ADVANCE IN MACEDONIA.

ANOTHER VILLAGE TAKEN.

LONDON, Sept. 13.

The following French eastern communique issued on Wednesday shows that the Allies in Macedonia are making a rapid advance on the extreme left of their front, in very wild and difficult country:—

French and Russian troops, following up their recent success brilliantly carried the village of Pogradec, on the south-west bank of Lake Ochrida. We drove back the enemy two and a half miles north of Pogradec.

LATE WAR NEWS.

RUSSIA'S CIVIL WAR.

PREPARATIONS OUTSIDE PETROGRAD.

LONDON, Sept. 13.

The "Stockholm Dagbladet" states that M. Kerensky has taken his place at the head of the army, and has started to intercept General Korniloff.

The troops supporting the Provisional Government are entrenching and fortifying outside Petrograd.

The bolcheviks are supporting M. Kerensky, who has acceded to some of their chief demands.

KERENSKY OFFERS BATTLE.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 13.

Advices from New York state that M. Kerensky at the head of his army has left Petrograd to meet General Korniloff in battle.

ENEMY ARTILLERY.

LONDON, Sept. 13.

A British communique, issued at 1 p.m., states:—We took a few prisoners in the Lens sector last night. Hostile artillery is active in the Bullecourt, Messines, and Langemarck areas.

CONTINUED AIRCRAFT ACTIVITY.

The Admiralty advises: "British airmen dropped several tons of bombs on Thourout aerodromes and the ammunition dumps of the Bruges docks, causing explosions. They attacked the shipping at Zeebrugge, and directly hit a large destroyer and several seaplane sheds, causing a fire. All our machines returned."

FRENCH CABINET.

The new French Cabinet is as follows:—

Prime Minister and Minister for War—M. Painleve.

Minister for Foreign Affairs—M. Ribot.

Minister for the Interior—M. Steeg.

Minister for Marine—M. Chaumet.

Minister for Armaments—M. Loucheur.

Minister for Finance—M. Klotz.

The Socialists have promised supply, in the interests of the nation's defence.

CHAMPION AIRMAN DOWNED.

It is reported from Amsterdam that a British airman has shot down Lieut. Hohndorf, who was the foremost German airman, and was a well-known flyer before the war.

BACK FROM GERMANY.

RELEASED AUSTRALIANS.

LONDON, Sept. 13.

The Australian soldiers who have been released from imprisonment in Germany spent the night in No. 1 General Hospital, Camberwell. They state that the Germans expressed unmitigated astonishment when the first Australians, Canadians, and South Africans began to filter through to Germany. German officers interrogating the prisoners said: "Why, we did not mean to fight your country. Our only quarrel is with England. Why on earth did you want to interfere?" The Germans were specially angry with the South Africans, owing to the success of General Botha's campaign; but some Germans behaved quite decently.

An Australian with a record of service in Egypt, the Dardanelles, and in France says that when he was captured during an assault on Mouquet Farm some Germans, speaking perfect English, wished him "Good morning" as he threaded along a German communication trench to the rear. A German orderly in one hospital also treated the prisoners kindly. He had been in England before the war, and disapproved of the German Emperor's actions, which had resulted in a world war.

Other Australians had less happy experiences. One captured in August, 1916, detailed how a chum was foully murdered by a German, who shot him point-blank in the face after he had surrendered. The range was so short that the victim's face was blackened by powder. The narrator added: "I went to Germany with another British soldier. During that nightmare of a journey our clothes were taken off, and we were paraded in the rain through a Belgian town, wearing only trousers. We were sent to Germany semi-naked in coal-trucks, and shown to the inhabitants of another town with the rain and coal dust thick upon our half-naked bodies. My poor chum died a fortnight after we reached Germany. Even the German doctor admitted that he had died of a broken heart."

Many stories of brutal cruelty were told, some acts amounting to cold-blooded murder. A petty officer belonging to the navy was kicked to death in a hospital after being wounded in battle. There were 12 British prisoners in hospital sick and wounded. They told the authorities they were unable to work. A German non-commissioned officer thereupon ordered his men to beat the British wounded with rifles. The petty officer attempted to strike the non-com., but was murdered for the effort. The authorities held an inquiry, but smoothed the affair over.

AUSTRALIANS AT SALISBURY.

Mr. C. G. Wade (Agent-General for New South Wales) has been for several days visiting the Australian troops at Salisbury Plain.

GERMAN AGENT DISMISSED.

Advices received in New York from Buenos Ayres state that Count von Luxburg has been handed his passports.

The Argentine Government is reopening the submarine controversy by asking Germany to define her policy again. If the reply is satisfactory Germany will be permitted to send another Minister to the Argentine, otherwise the Argentine will withdraw her Minister from Berlin.

BRITISH AMAZEMENT.

It is understood that the British Minister in Stockholm acting on instructions had a conversation with the Swedish Foreign Minister, and expressed the British Government's amazement concerning the charges against Sweden. The British Minister pointed out that assurances had been given previously by the Swedish Government, and expressed surprise that the Swedish Government had not given any explanation regarding the charges.

Several anti-German and anti-Swedish demonstrations have been suppressed in Buenos Ayres.

TAXATION OF ELIGIBLES.

PROTEST AGAINST BACHELORS' TAX.

A large crowd assembled in the School of Arts Hall last night, under the auspices of the Single Men's Association, a body recently formed to protest against the proposed passing of the taxation bill, which provides for a tax upon eligible single men and widowers without children.

The meeting decided to petition the Government and Federal members against the bill. Mr. Shields, the chairman of the meeting, said that the tax amounted to a fine of 10 per cent. "The Federal Government," he continued, "was elected on the specific pledge of voluntary enlistment, and now they threatened by a devious method to violate the pledge by introducing economic conscription."

MINERS OBDURATE

GOVERNMENT PROPOSALS REJECTED

CALL FOR MORE VOLUNTEERS

Interest in the strike centred almost entirely yesterday in the negotiations which were carried on between the Industrial Commissioner and the Council of the Miners' Federation.

On behalf of the Government Mr. Holme submitted proposals for the future working of the mines.

While all mines and loyalist miners were to be protected, prior consideration was offered, in the matter of the re-employment of miners, to the claims of men who had been previously employed.

On behalf of the Council of the Miners' Federation it was stated last night that these terms had been rejected, it being considered that they were humiliating and degrading.

It was stated last night that at the present rate of progress the Government would be getting 10,000 tons of coal per day in a month's time.

COAL MINES.

GOVERNMENT'S PROPOSALS REJECTED.

Members of the council of the Coal and Shale Employees' Federation were again in conference with Mr. J. B. Holme, Industrial Commissioner, yesterday. At the close of proceedings last night it was intimated that the council of the federation had that night received from the Government proposals, the acceptance of which that body would never, it was stated, irrespective of the consequences, agree to recommend to the men. The proposals are:—

Government's terms with regard to resumption of work in the collieries not at present working:—

1. The Government is to continue to work all mines in New South Wales.
2. No mines in New South Wales are to be treated as "black."
3. All permits issued by the Minister under the Act to remain in force, if the holders so desire.
4. The Government manager to exercise his discretion as to the re-employment of men, but prior consideration to be given in each instance to the claims of miners previously employed.
5. Permits under the Coal Mines Regulation Amendment Act, 1917, only to be issued in respect of a mine where employees are on strike.
6. Rates of pay and working conditions to be the same as those existing on August 1 last, and to continue on that basis during the currency of the orders made by Judge Edmunds.

COUNCIL'S ATTITUDE.

At the close of proceedings, the following official statement was made on behalf of the council of the men's federation:—"Arrangements having been made by an officer of the federation for Mr. Holme to meet the council with a view to discussing the position as it affected the miners of this State, a conference was commenced on Tuesday afternoon, and was continued on Wednesday. All phases of the question were thoroughly discussed. The attitude of the council from the outset was thoroughly ventilated. The point was emphasised very forcibly by us that all we desired was to resume work on the conditions that existed prior to the cessation of work. We therefore asked, seeing that the Government had taken over the mines, that they should be opened up either by the proprietors or by themselves in order that the men could now resume work, and, prior to meeting Mr. Holme, instructions were given by the executive of federation for certain of the mines to be prepared in readiness for a resumption of work, in order to show that, as far as we are concerned, we are anxious that the people of the State should be relieved of the unfortunate condition of affairs that exists to-day. We informed Mr. Holme of our inclinations in this way, and told him that, when the engine-drivers and firemen had assembled for work, they were informed by the managers of some of the collieries that their services would not be required until they got instructions from the Government. We pointed out, however, to Mr. Holme that if an opportunity was extended to us to converse with Cabinet, we felt sure that some good purpose could be served. Mr. Holme stated, in reply, that he would interview the Cabinet, to see if this could be arranged. Up till now we have had no intimation that they will meet us, although we are still open to negotiate for a resumption of work. It is to be regretted that the Cabinet is taking up such a stand-and-deliver attitude with a view to compelling men to resume operations and to humiliate them. We have this evening received the Government's terms with regard to a resumption of work. The council, after having given full consideration to these proposals, has arrived at the conclusion that it is not in a position to recommend their acceptance to the members of the federation. We are now fully convinced, from the Government's latest proposals, that the Government has no desire to effect a settlement except on conditions which we consider humiliating and degrading.

"Irrespective of the consequences the council will never agree to recommend to the men the acceptance of these proposals."

WORK AT WALLARAH.

(FROM OUR SPECIAL REPRESENTATIVE.)

CATHERINE HILL BAY, Thursday.

More new men went into the mine to-day, and the coal came out splendidly. The output of the preceding days was fully maintained. Some of the men are obtaining week-end leave to visit Sydney. The first rain since the establishment of the camp fell to-day, but the men were not inconvenienced, as the camp arrangements are in good order. Money is being subscribed amongst the men to erect a headstone over the grave of the volunteer who died on Saturday last.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

Burwood Extended colliery continues to work, and has a daily output of about 100 tons. The volunteer camp is now lighted by electricity at night. Two other district collieries, excluding Wallarah, are also working steadily. Arrangements are also pending for the reopening of one or two Maitland mines by loyalists.

GUNNEDAH, Thursday.

Mr. Bridge, secretary of the Gunnedah Colliery Company, Ltd., was interviewed this morning as to the conditions at Black Jack. His statement was to the effect that, except the delays through the railway strike, the mine had been in continuous work. A number of the old employees are standing by the mine, supplemented by a few skilled hands from Sydney and elsewhere. The output now is one-third of the average under normal conditions. No unskilled labour is employed.

LITHGOW, Thursday.

Men continue to arrive in small numbers for three collieries now being worked in this district by volunteer labour. At the Invincible, Cullen Bullen, 11 reported yesterday, making a total of 130 men now engaged there. Both at this pit and at the Lithgow Valley the daily output continues to improve, and the management of both mines expresses satisfaction at the progress being made and the class of men engaged. Oakey Park has not as yet had a large output, but as new men have arrived, together with a number of experienced deputies, it is stated that there will be an early increase in the quantity of coal brought to the surface. Until the miners of the ironworks colliery resume there is little prospect of a general resumption at either the ironworks or the blast furnaces.

TRUCK PROBLEM.

RYLSTONE, Thursday.

At Tong Bong colliery hundreds of tons of coal are lying idle, the railway trucks being all filled. The mine is being worked by volunteers.

MINES FOR VICTORIA.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

Two mines are on offer to the Victorian Government in connection with the proposal that Victoria should work a mine in New South Wales. These are the Pelaw-Main and the Richmond Main collieries. Work will probably begin first at the smaller mine—the Richmond Main. Up till this evening 170 applications for work at the mine were received, while 65 had come to hand by post. Nearly all of the 170 men who were interviewed by the mine officials of New South Wales were considered to be suitable for the work required.

SIGNING ON.

15,000 FILL IN THE FORMS.

The following statement, which was made available by the Chief Railway Commissioner (Mr. Fraser) last night, gives the revised figures up to and including Wednesday last, as to staff employed, strikers re-employed and awaiting employment, new hands employed, etc.:—

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| Staff employed on August 1 | | 37,133 |
| Staff loyal at noon on August 14, less those who struck subsequently | 15,800 | |
| Strikers re-employed to August 12, practically all of whom signed forms | 7,184 | |
| Strikers who signed forms to August 12, but have not yet been re-employed | 7,870 | |
| Strikers who have not yet signed forms | 6,309 | |
| | | 37,133 |
| New hands employed | 3,150 | |

This leaves a balance between new hands employed and strikers who have not yet signed forms, of 3359, for whom positions would not be available even if pre-strike conditions could be immediately reverted to.

The figures on Thursday showed a total of strikers who had not up to August 11 signed forms for re-employment as 7418. The figures to August 12 are 6509, or nearly 1000 less.

LISMORE, Thursday.

About seventy rail men applied for reinstatement here yesterday and 38 were accepted, comprising 24 loco men and 14 permanent way men. It is understood that no drivers or firemen were put on as their services are not yet required. Pending a satisfactory coal supply being assured, the present restricted time table will be continued. The men signed the application forms submitted.

BATHURST, Thursday.

The split among the local railway men over the question of signing the re-employment application forms is now complete. While the members of the Engine Drivers, Firemen's, and Cleaners' Association have put in their applications in a body, the Amalgamated Engineers have decided to follow the advice of the central executive and refrain from going near the office. The boilermakers take a similar stand, but the attitude of the Coachmakers' Union is uncertain, and is to be decided at a mass meeting.

Up to this afternoon 168 railway loco. men had filled in the re-employment application forms, but only four were taken on, the others being informed that they would be notified later. In addition, 33 traffic men have signed the forms for re-employment.

TRAINS AND TRAMS.

The Chief Railway Commissioner (Mr. Fraser) stated last night:—"The railway passenger and goods train services are being worked without difficulty. There will probably not be any further material alteration until the coal position shows improvement.

"The tram services on Sunday next will be the same as on last Sunday, namely, a limited service between 1 p.m. and 9 p.m., only on lines as advertised."

GAS STRIKE.

SOME STRIKERS RESUME.

The Australian Gaslight Company now has between 500 and 600 volunteers. That the output is satisfactory is clearly evidenced by the relaxation of some of the restrictions in the use of gas.

Nearly a score of the strikers have indicated their intention of returning to work at Neutral Bay. Some, indeed, have actually started work again, and the manager of the North Shore Gas Company says that, with ample labour available, and with the assistance of old hands "who have seen the light," he has great hopes of pulling through in a manner entirely satisfactory alike to the company and the public.

DEFENCE COMMITTEE

The men's Defence Committee issued the following statement yesterday:—"Reports received from various unions represented on the Defence Committee prove conclusively that the great majority of the men presented themselves for work on Tuesday morning, and were quite prepared to accept the terms of settlement as put forward by the executive. Responsibility for the present position must be borne by the Government, for had the terms of agreement been adhered to it is safe to say that no further continuance of the trouble would have taken place. The Defence Committee must now reconsider the whole matter, and unless an understanding can be specially arrived at there is no telling what fresh complications may arise. Had the railway trouble been disposed of the transport, miners', and waterfront dispute could have been considered, and probably no great difficulty would have been experienced in getting an adjustment of the differences which now exist outside of the railway service. A delegate from the Newcastle Defence Committee reports that 150 men presented themselves for work at Honeysuckle workshops on Tuesday morning, and only 10 signed the forms presented to them. The attitude of the men at Newcastle is hostile to the terms of settlement, and they also refuse to take up duty unless the forms are withdrawn. The position generally is one of solidarity on the part of the men. The steel works trouble is far from settled, and the men are determined to resist the demands of the company in regard to signing identification forms, and they also decided not to return to work until all the loyalists have been removed from the works. It has been decided that the whole of the traffic running staff unions should meet, and decide on their policy, and report back to the Defence Committee. This does not include employees in the workshops."

WALSH ISLAND.

MEN RESUME WORK.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

Work was resumed at Walsh Island Government Dockyard at 7.30 o'clock this morning, when 520 men were accepted and about 150 rejected.

Work was also restarted at other engineering works in the district.

ELECTRICAL TRADES.

RESUME WORK.

Mr. Black, secretary to the Electrical Trades Union, stated yesterday that his union had accepted the terms of settlement of the Defence Committee.

A large number of members of the organisation had started work that morning at Randwick, and the lighting department, which included the railway and tramway depot buildings, Sydney Station, the railway yards, and a number of other places.

A number of the men had also resumed operations in the overhead lines branch.

GLASS BOTTLE MAKERS.

Members of the Glass Bottle Makers' Union met yesterday, and decided that they could not return to work until the coal miners had resumed. "Our resumption," said one of the officials of the union, "is dependent practically upon the coal miners."

STOREMEN AND PACKERS.

A special meeting of the Storemen and Packers' Union was held yesterday. At the conclusion of the proceedings it was stated that a motion had been carried favouring the appointment of a new Defence Committee. The unions' delegates to the Defence Committee had been withdrawn, and new ones appointed in their place.

PAINTERS AND DECORATORS.

Mr. Adams, general secretary to the Painters and Decorators' Union, said last night that at a meeting of the union, which would be held on Monday next, the following notices of motion would be dealt with:—"That the general secretary (Mr. R. H. Adams) no longer holds the confidence of the members of this union," and "That any question involving a cessation of work be referred to a ballot of all financial members in the union."

MUNICIPAL EMPLOYEES.

Mr. Tyrell (president of the Municipal Employees' Union) said last night that owing to the lack of material about 290 men, including carters, labourers, and mechanics, in the employ of the maintenance department of the City Council, had been put off. He understood that 84 employees would be re-engaged to-day, and the others would go back in the order of length of service as the material became available.

PREFERENCE CANCELLED.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

It was announced in a special Commonwealth Gazette to-night that the regulation under the War Precautions Act cancelling preference under agreements to waterside workers, had been extended to Port Kembla and Wollongong.

THE LOYALISTS.

The number of loyalists encamped at the Sydney Cricket Ground and Taronga Park was officially set down at 6584 last night. The demand for voluntary labour continues, and efforts are being made further to augment this number by at least a thousand in the immediate future.

NATIONAL SERVICE BUREAU.

In addition to the usual demand for skilled miners and other men who have had experience in collieries, the Government now asks for 200 coal shovellers. Fifty will be selected by the National Service Bureau to-morrow for immediate work in a northern colliery. In addition to fares and free board and lodging the Government will pay full award rates with a guaranteed minimum. As soon as the first 50 men get to work, a further selection of 150 shovellers will be made, probably on Tuesday.

Yesterday men were sent to Muswellbrook and Invincible mines, while additional miners were also engaged for the Lithgow mines. Crews were secured for two interstate steamers.

To-day miners, deputies, road-layers, firemen, and seamen will be enrolled, and given immediate work.

The enrolments and applications at the bureau show that considerable unemployment exists. Thus 130 men are asking for clerical work, 220 cooks and stewards have handed in their names, 90 carpenters and joiners are registered, while nearly 400 general labourers want work.

COMPLICATED POSITION AT NEWCASTLE.

NEWCASTLE, Thursday.

The position in Newcastle as regards the strikers is much tangled. In the railway traffic branch, loco. and running sheds, the few men who have been accepted during the past two days have raised no objection to working with loyalists, but the crane employees insist upon being reinstated in a body, and that the Department dismiss the loyalists who were employed at the dyke. The railway reports that this will not be done, except when the occasion arises. If the crane men do not return to work, others will be obtained to replace them.

Over 1700 employees at the steel works are still out. It is understood that the principal objection of the men relates to the application form for employment. The management cannot employ more hands until the mines are restarted. The moulders have returned to work at the steel works.

As the railway application form is to be modified it is expected that the balance of the ex-employees will apply for reinstatement.

The ex-employees at the Walsh Island Government engineering works, and at Messrs. Morrison and Bearby's, at Carrington, and Messrs. Goninan and Co. at Wickham, intend resuming work to-day. Messrs. Morrison and Bearby have agreed that there shall be no victimisation, but all the men cannot be taken back into the firm owing to reduced business through the strike. A few men started at Goninan's works yesterday, and 150 more are expected to return.

A mass meeting of all ex-employees of the railway and tramway departments was held yesterday, and it was decided to leave the whole dispute in the hands of the strike committee.

Five hundred men during Tuesday and Wednesday signed the application form for re-employment in the traffic branch of the district railways.

"I think I am safe in saying that the engineers will be back on Monday," said Mr. N. K. Allardice, manager of Honeysuckle Point workshops, to-day. He could not, however, speak for the boilermakers. The hope of returning to work at an early date is expressed by the majority of the men.

"We can continue indefinitely so far as the mechanical side is concerned," said Mr. Hamblin, the district inspector, to-day. He added that skilled men were doing all the repairing and other necessary work. The railway timetable appeared to meet the requirements of the district. The department had received reports that fitters had returned at Taree, Murrurundi, Moree, and Narrabri.

ARREST OF UNION SECRETARY

Yesterday afternoon Detectives Jordan, Ramsay, and Thornley arrested Frank Owens, secretary of the Liquor Trades Employees' Union, New South Wales branch.

At 4 o'clock Owens was brought before Mr. Macfarlane, S.M., at the Central Police Station on a charge of having conspired with others to prejudice and prevent Schweppes, Ltd., in carrying on their business as general agents and manufacturers of aerated waters.

Mr. Bathgate (Crown Law Department) said that Owens had been going round among the principal hotels in the city threatening the proprietors that if they used Schweppes manufactures, which had been declared "black," supplies of other liquors would be stopped.

On the application of Mr. Bathgate a remand till the 21st inst. was granted. Owens was allowed bail; self in £200, and one surety in £200, or two in £100.

COCKATOO DOCKYARD.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the House of Representatives last night Mr. Fowler (W.A.) said that money was being wasted at Cockatoo Island Dockyard. He doubted whether the Government was getting ten shillings return for every pound spent in wages, and he strongly urged the Ministry to introduce the piecework system at the dockyard. He believed the bulk of the men were in favour of it.

Mr. Riley (N.S.W.) said trouble would be caused at the dockyard if the Government attempted to start piecework.

QUEENSLAND.

INTERSTATE TRAFFIC.

BRISBANE, Thursday.

Howard Smith and Company yesterday morning advertised for men to load the steamer Chillagoe with timber. A number of applications were received, and the work of loading was commenced during the afternoon. It is expected the Chillagoe will leave for Melbourne on Saturday. It is believed the difficulty of obtaining a crew will be satisfactorily overcome.

At a meeting of the committee of the Brisbane Chamber of Commerce Mr. J. P. Wilson said it would be a lasting disgrace to Queensland if nothing was done to resume interstate traffic. The declared intention of the men who were endeavouring to hold up trade was the smashing up of private ownership, and strikes were their methods. He could not see how Queensland could stand these conditions any longer. He had been informed authoritatively that a number of sugar growers would have to go into the Insolvency Court as a result of the present troubles. Queensland was the only State that had done nothing to endeavour to resume interstate traffic.

Mr. E. B. Wareham said the position in Brisbane was that the wharf-labourers had not refused to handle cargo. The Adelaide Steamship Company contemplated running the steamer Tarcoola from Melbourne. This steamer was loaded by non-union labour, and the secretary of the Brisbane Wharf-labourers' Union had told him the wharf-labourers would handle the cargo on vessels arriving in Brisbane. His company was running the steamer Morialta from Brisbane to Cairns.

After further discussion it was decided that the chamber should communicate with the Prime Minister, strongly urging the immediate re-establishment of interstate communication by sea, and assuring the Government of their co-operation by opening a free labour bureau, and that the Sydney and Melbourne chambers be asked to approach the Federal Government with similar requests; also that, in the event of the Prime Minister backing up the movement a meeting of kindred associations be held with the object of forming a national free labour bureau.

The Adelaide Company's steamer Cantara arrived last night from Adelaide, and commenced discharging about 1000 tons of general cargo. She is expected to leave on Saturday with coal and general cargo for Townsville and Cairns.

TABLES TURNED.

A report from South-west Queensland states that an endeavour has been made by an A.W.U. organiser to form a union among the employees in a certain district and to foment a strike. The men, however, decided to continue at work, and at the same meeting declared the organiser himself to be "black."

IN THE COUNTRY.

WOLLONGONG, Thursday.

At Port Kembla Harbour this morning some engine drivers and firemen of the Public Works Department resumed work. Coal that was loaded by loyalist workers at the Kembla Central was conveyed to the Port Kembla jetty for shipment. The embargo that had been placed on the employees of the Electrolytic Company at Port Kembla not to handle any material coming to hand has been lifted, the secretary of the local union having received a telegram from Sydney to that effect yesterday. The men who were on strike at the Mt. Lyell coke-works at Port Kembla received instructions from their union that they could unload bags of coke that had been put on trucks prior to the strike. Workmen who under ordinary conditions work at Port Kembla put in an appearance at the works, but those living at Unanderra and Wollongong did not do so, on account of having received later instructions not to go to work. The trucks on which the coke is loaded are the property of the Kembla Coal Company, and are required to convey coal from the Kembla Central to Port Kembla for shipment.

CONSPIRACY CHARGES.

At the Central Police Court yesterday, before Mr. McFarlane, S.M., the proceedings were continued against Edward John Kavanagh, M.L.C., 46, Albert Charles Willis, 41, Claude Thompson, 42, and Arthur William Buckley, M.L.A., 26, who are charged with having conspired to instigate persons employed in the service of the Commissioners for Railways to strike and neglect their duties as public officers. Buckley was also charged with seditious utterances in a public place.

Mr. Broomfield and Mr. Bathgate (Crown Law Department) appeared for the Crown; Mr. Watt (instructed by C. A. Coghlan and Co.) appeared on behalf of Kavanagh, Willis, and Thompson; Mr. C. M. Collins (instructed by Mr. E. C. Bender) appeared for Buckley.

Elizabeth Creasey, attendant at the Central Railway Station refreshment rooms, gave evidence, identifying Willis, whom she saw at the refreshment rooms two or three times. She saw him there on the Saturday before the girls struck work; he was with two others, and they appeared to be in the confidence of three of the waitresses.

To Mr. Watt: On the previous day, from the witness box, she said she could not identify Willis. A detective called on her about 4.30 p.m., and told her to come to court again in the morning. He asked her if she felt nervous, and said he could see she was when she was called up. She knew Mr. Connington, and had seen him at the cafe with Willis, M'Crystal, and another man. She had seen the three there more frequently than she had seen Willis. The first time she noticed Willis that morning was when he came into court; she was talking with the Crown counsel at the time. The waitresses had been restless for ten or eleven days before they ceased work. There was a good deal of talk about the strike amongst the customers.

William Duncan said he was a member of the reporting staff of the "Sydney Morning Herald." He heard Willis speak in the Domain several times in August. He did not regard Willis as a firebrand in the Domain. Shown the manuscript of portion of a report in his handwriting and a copy of the "Herald" dated August 13, witness said he recognised what was written as part of the report of a meeting in the Domain on Sunday afternoon, August 12.

Proceeding, the witness said he wrote the report within half an hour of leaving the Domain. In his speech Willis said "what they wanted to do was not to create a general strike. They would simply pull out the unions one by one as they required them. A general strike would defeat the object they had in view."

To Mr. Watt: He heard Willis say he was doing his best to bring about a settlement. Willis advocated a sectional instead of a general strike.

Witness said he had frequently heard the merits of a general and a sectional strike discussed in the Domain. The burning of Sydney had been discussed at I.W.W. meetings. The strike was discussed in the Domain long before witness saw Willis at any of the meetings there.

Detective Vincent deposed to hearing a speech by Willis in the Domain some time after 4 p.m. on August 12. Willis, addressing a knot of 700 to 800 people, said: "Take no notice of what you hear, be guided by your leaders. Some people think we should call a general strike, but I think that would defeat itself in a week. The committee will call out the unions as they want them, and the last to be called on will be those that deal with the food supplies. We will not deal with them so long as we get a fair share, but if we find it diverted into other channels, the committee will take the necessary action. The people of this country procure all the wealth, and should have food and boots. The Government has wheat stored which it will not sell until it gets its price. Fight for your rights, remain solid, and we are sure to win."

To Mr. Watt: He made no notes of the speech immediately, but about a quarter-past 5 the same afternoon did so; he had a copy of a report with him, and had read it about 9.30 that morning. He heard a number of speeches on the same day.

Roy Neville Connolly, reporter on the "Daily Telegraph," stated that he was in the Domain on Thursday, August 9, and heard Willis make a speech, in which he said "the demonstration in the Domain was the best answer to the Government's statement that the men were 'blacklegging'; that the card system, together with the resentment aroused by the treatment the workers generally had received, was responsible for the situation that day; that after negotiations with the Government that day the Cabinet had retired, and afterwards returned with practically the same statement they had made all along, which was in effect, 'You tell those naughty boys to go back to work; we will treat them like fathers; we stand before the public exonerated as having done all we could to settle the strike.'"

Henry Charles Wilson said he was chief inspector of railway refreshment rooms. He knew Willis by sight. On one occasion he saw Willis at the Central Railway Station refreshment room. That was on August 10. He did not see Willis talking to anyone. Willis was there about 20 minutes.

To Mr. Watt: Mr. Connington, whom he knew by sight, was with Willis that day.

Douglas Robinson, railway porter, employed at Wingham, deposed to receiving a letter signed "Claude Thompson, general secretary," urging men to strike, and enclosing a printed circular, headed, "Permanent way men stood firm and free."

James McPhee, a fettler in the employ of the Railway Commissioners at Springwood, recalled by Mr. Broomfield, said that he wrote to Claude Thompson on August 7 or 8, after the visit of Kearney, the railway organiser, to Valley Heights. That was when he sent a telegram to Thompson, telling him that the men on the line were still at work. In the letter he gave his reasons for not joining the strikers. He had no copy of the letter, but speaking from memory he could say that he told Thompson that he had a wife and four little children, and was not going to leave them out in the cold by ceasing work, especially as he had had a big struggle to bring up the children in comfort.

CHARGE AGAINST BUCKLEY.

After the luncheon adjournment Mr. Broomfield proceeded with the charge against Buckley for seditious utterances in a speech in the Domain on August 24. The words complained of were:—"The Government could not hold out another week, but the men could stand solid for a month or two. I know of a development which will in a few days have the effect of bringing about a compromise. The men are going back victorious, and then the Lieutenant-Governor would have to get the resignation of the Government, which no longer represents the people. Mr. Fraser told them how many men had returned to work, but they were never told that four men had been killed at the Eveleigh workshops, and one at Randwick. There are hundreds of trams lying ruined at the sheds, and were now no better than scrap iron and wood."

Constable John Vincent Hogan, recalled, was cross-examined by Mr. Collins. The crowd at the meeting addressed by Buckley included some children; it was an orderly crowd. He was present on ordinary duty, and was not waiting specially for Buckley. Buckley made other remarks than those stated by witness in his evidence-in-chief on the previous day; he spoke only about five minutes. Buckley said: "The Lieutenant-Governor will get the resignation of the Government," not "will have to get."

Constable William Gobel was also cross-examined by Mr. Collins. When writing his notes after the meeting Constable Hogan referred to witness now and again, but he made no alteration of Hogan's notes.

Sergt. Mackay identified the signatures to two telegrams as those of Buckley and Kavanagh. One read: "To E. M. Davies, Trades Hall, Brisbane.—Directed request you. Clyde return Sydney immediately. Kavanagh." The other read: "Peter Burke, Ayr, Queensland.—Unionists solid; defeat impossible; few free labourers; arrest leaders Saturday insignificant; procession strikers daily; public sympathy, moral splendid. Buckley, Parliament House."

Constable Alex. McMurray said he was in the Domain when Buckley made a speech on August 22. Buckley said: "No Government can defeat you when you are determined to do otherwise. Never mind how many men they arrest, because for every week they keep one leader in gaol so long will this strike continue. For every man they arrest there is another body to cease work. I do not advocate revolution, because I know that when you take up arms you court defeat. Remain loyal to your leaders and the Defence Committee. Never mind Government proclamations. Let them take all the Defence Committee and the executive. They can take 300 workers, but remember you, and you alone, shall determine whether you shall go back to work. We will not compromise. We will demand and march into victory on our own terms, not theirs."

Detective John Howe deposed that on August 24 he heard Buckley, addressing a meeting in the Domain, say: "I am pleased to inform you that a large number of the free labourers have gone back to the country disgusted, and if you remain firm the fight is yours. I have it from good authority that Lloyd George sent a cable to the Commonwealth Government asking them to settle the strike at all costs, as they had industrial troubles in all centres in England."

Detective Keefe said he was in the Domain on August 22 and heard Buckley speak. Buckley described the Government as "a crowd of parasites and an organ of destruction."

This closed the Crown case.

The Court adjourned till this morning.

OUR NEW GOVERNOR.

SIR WALTER EDWARD DAVIDSON, K.C.M.G.,
Governor of Newfoundland,

Who has been appointed Governor of New South Wales in succession to Sir Gerald Strickland.

(From a photograph taken in 1907.)

TO ARRIVE IN DECEMBER.

LONDON, Sept. 12.

The family of Sir Walter Davidson, the new Governor of New South Wales, will remain in Newfoundland while he is visiting England in October and conferring with Mr. Walter Long (Secretary of State for the Colonies) and Mr. C. G. Wade (Agent-General for New South Wales) and organising his staff. He will then rejoin his family in Newfoundland and will arrive in Sydney about December, travelling via America.

STATE PARLIAMENT.

When the Legislative Assembly met yesterday afternoon the Minister for Lands, Mr. Ashford, said that he had intended making a statement with regard to a number of charges which had been made about the administration of his department by the member for Gloucester (Mr. Price). As the matter had been discussed in Cabinet that day, however, and as the Cabinet had come to a decision regarding it, he would not now make any statement on the floor of the House.

The Acting Premier, Mr. Fuller, said the Minister had wished to make a personal explanation in regard to accusations made against him by the member for Gloucester. In view of the seriousness of the charges made, however, the Cabinet had that day decided to appoint a Royal Commission to investigate them. (Ministerial applause.)

Mr. John Storey, leader of the Opposition, asked if the Government would extend the scope of the commission so as to cover the charges recently alleged to have been made by Mr. A. K. Trethowan, M.L.C.?

Mr. Fuller said that he was as anxious as anybody to preserve the integrity of Parliament. "But I am also aware," he said, "that the gentleman referred to has publicly denied having made the accusations. If any definite statement is made, I shall see that the honour and integrity of Parliament are upheld. In view of the public statement of Mr. Trethowan that he did not make any charges against the Minister, I do not think we are called upon to extend the scope of the commission to cover them."

Mr. Osborne asked if it was not a fact that during a country tour by the Minister for Labour and Industry, before the strike, the Minister had invited the enrolment of men who were prepared to come to Sydney at the call of the Government for the purpose of taking the places of strikers who would try to hold up the services of the State?

Mr. Beeby: All the suggestions and insinuations contained in that question are absolutely false.

Replying to Mr. Brookfield, Mr. Fuller said that there had been an increase of seven in the detective force between July 1, 1916, and June 30, 1917.

In answer to Mr. McKell and Mr. Stuart-Robertson, the Acting Premier said that during the period of the strike the food orders issued had nearly doubled, increasing from over 300 in the first week to 600 in the fourth week.

The House, in committee, resumed consideration of the Estimates, those for the Department of Public Instruction being taken.

The Minister for Education stated that the Government had planned to increase the minimum salary for teachers to £156, but when the final revision of the Estimates came about it was found necessary to lop off £98,400. The people who would have been benefited were the unmarried female teachers, of whom there were 2644 receiving between £132 and £156 per year. The males in the same salary grading were 474. The Cabinet had, however, decided to, on supplementary Estimates, provide £20,000 for allowances to married teachers. That would only be a temporary expedient, preliminary to entering upon a general scheme. The aviation school had turned out 41 pilots.

Mr. Briner urged the Government to establish kindergarten classes in the bush schools.

Dr. Arthur said that instead of spending a large amount of money on the Conservatorium of Music hands should be subsidised so that music could be provided for the public in the parks. He objected to the proposal of the Government to treat all public school children free of charge at the public hospitals. He would rather see the clinics continued, although they had been proved a failure.

The Minister for Education: They were not.

Dr. Arthur: Then why were they given up?

The Minister for Education: They were given up to please the British Medical Association. You want me to ask every child whether his father is earning £200 per annum. I won't do it.

LEGISLATIVE COUNCIL.

TAXATION BILL.

In the Legislative Council yesterday the Life, Fire, and Marine Insurance (Amendment) Bill was read a third time and passed.

The Finance Taxation (Amendment) Bill was received from the Assembly, and read a first time. The Minister for Justice (Mr. Garland), in moving the second reading, said the bill in the first place reimposed the super-tax on income of 3d in the £. The strike had resulted in an enormous falling off of receipts from railways and the Harbour Trust, and he feared that if an early settlement was not come to it would lead to an early falling off in the receipts from income tax. In 1916-17 the amount received from the supertax was £420,000. The percentage taxes on receipts of bookmakers' fees in respect of racing clubs were to be doubled, as was the amount of stamp duty on bookmakers' tickets. The very considerable restrictions on racing about to be made by the Federal Government would seriously affect the revenue from these sources. As far as the totalisator was concerned, the Government was prepared, after further experience, to reconsider the division of the percentage derived from the totalisator if the present system was found to be unfair to the clubs.

The second reading was agreed to, and the bill taken through its remaining stages and passed without amendment.

The Navigation Amendment Bill was received from the Assembly, taken without amendment through all stages, and passed.

At 6.10 the Council adjourned to next Thursday.

THE HOME FOR INCURABLES.

The Town Hall was crowded last night on the occasion of a concert and presentation of the annual report of the New South Wales Home for Incurables, Ryde. The Lieutenant-Governor, Sir William Cullen, and Lady Cullen, attended by General Finn, were present, and the Lieutenant-Governor, who is president of the home, moved the adoption of the report and balance-sheet. In doing so, he warmly commended the work of the voluntary committee, also the matron, Miss Mann, and her staff, and the efforts in the country districts of Miss Schradt, hon. country lecturer, for the home. Mr. Meredith Atkinson, in seconding the motion, made an appeal for funds, and extended, on behalf of the committee, an invitation to any of those present to visit the home and see for themselves the cheerful serenity of the patients. Mr. W. E. Wilson, chairman, and Mr. F. C. Moore, secretary, were on the platform.

A concert, generously contributed by the following artists, who were given a vote of thanks by acclamation, occupied the remainder of the evening:—Miss Carrie Lanceley, Miss Beryl Starling, Mr. F. Mowat Carter, Mr. Chas. Smythe, Mr. Sid Macdonald, Mr. Harry Thomas (recitations), Miss Lilian Frost, organist, and Mr. W. Caspers, accompanist.

FINANCIAL.

STATE TAXATION PROPOSALS.

Treasurers are all of the same nature. They impose taxation. They do not remit it. They protest that they would be glad to remit it, but they always declare that it is impossible. Mr. Fitzpatrick, our Acting Treasurer, is no exception to the rule, which has obtained of late years. The super-tax was imposed as a war tax, though the State as a State has nothing to do with war expenditure, and the super-tax is continued as one of the ordinary taxes for raising ordinary revenue. The Acting Treasurer declares the helplessness of the Government to economise. His words are: "It is impossible to bring expenditure back to the conditions prevailing before the era of extravagance commenced." It would have been more correct if he had said, "The Government regard it as impolitic to bring expenditure back." The super-tax of 3d in the £ which is imposed on all income-tax-payers alike whether their incomes be large or small last year brought in £420,000. The whole produce of income tax and super tax was £2,043,911. Mr. John Storey is now in Opposition. It was his party which instituted the super tax. It was his party which rioted in extravagance. Now that he is Opposition he fails to recognise the necessity for the re-imposition of the super tax. Does he also fail to see the necessity for continuing the extravagance which the super tax helps to feed? Shipping is scarce just now and consequently the revenue from the pilots has decreased. To bring it up to boom tide-mark again the pilotage dues are to be increased by 12½ per cent. Sydney is the shipping port of the Commonwealth. The increase will not help Sydney to maintain that supremacy.

EASTERN AND AUSTRALIAN S.S. COMPANY.

The report of this company for the last year shows that the company almost doubled its profit compared with the previous year. The profit in 1916 was £76,703, and in 1915 £39,293. A sum of £20,000 is transferred to reserve, together with £5000 which stood in the previous account as a provision against contingencies. With the sum brought forward there is available £67,453, from which a dividend of 15 per cent. is declared, compared with 10 per cent. in 1915. For the first six months of the year three steamers were in operation, but only two were in commission in the latter half of the year, and since then both of these have been requisitioned by the British Government.

COMMERCIAL.

THE MARKETS.

A fair business was done in groceries yesterday. Salmon, on spot, was selling up to 17/ for 1lb talls, and up to 18/ for 1lb flats. Red Alaska sold up to 14/. Nothing was done in forward business. Owing to the uncertainty as to landed costs merchants preferred, for the present, not to quote to retailers. Matches were getting scarcer. There are now two months' deliveries due of both wax vestas and safeties. Of course, in view of the Government action, prices have not increased. The future of dates is uncertain. There have been quotations received for new season's shipments, but as there will be no direct boat from the Persian Gulf, importers will be compelled to content themselves with receiving shipments via Bombay. As in these circumstances the time of arrival here would be very uncertain merchants are not inclined to do business. As far as can be learned there have been no contracts made. The cost on the quotations received would be just about the same to land in Sydney as the price of dates on spot.

Metals were dull yesterday. There was no change in quotations of any of the heavy meals. Shelf goods continued to advance. Each mail brings particulars of additions to cost.

Cornsacks were unchanged yesterday. The price having reached the full limit of 9/6 net to rail allowed by the proclamation, sales are more numerous. Sales were also made yesterday at 9/3 slings, plus war risk. Holders believed that branbags should be firmer, and asked 8/4 net to rails, but business was extremely quiet, as buyers knew that the Melbourne rate was 8/. Woolpacks were easy at 4/ net to rails for spot lots.

GERMAN STEAMER ORSOVA.

The Sydney Chamber of Commerce calls the attention of consignees of cargo on board the German steamer Orsova, at present sheltering at Padang, Java, to a letter received from the Java Ships' Management Committee. The full details of this letter appear in our business columns.

THE SUPPLY OF SUGAR.

"Suburban Grocer" writes:—

Sir,—As a reader of your paper I should be glad if you would give publicity to this letter. As a grocer of twenty years' standing in the one district, I would like to draw public attention to the way we are being treated by the Sugar Company. We find it impossible to get sugar through the wholesale houses, and yet we know for a fact that several big retail grocers in the city can let their customers have any quantity they want. Yet we are in the unenviable position of being allowed two or three bags a week, our usual turnover being three or four bags a day. It is ruining our business, and I should be glad if someone would take this matter up and find out how it is that the Sugar Company will not give us sugar, although we are willing to cart it from their works at Pyrmont and pay cash for same. If the company is allowing the big firms to cart their own sugar, why should not the same privilege be given to the small man in business? This seems to be a very unfair method, and it means a great loss of trade and inconvenience.

FURTHER NECESSARY COMMODITIES.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the "Commonwealth Gazette" to-day it was notified that glucose had been declared a foodstuff, and that glue, rabbit traps, strychnine, firewood, glue pieces, whitelead, and glass bottles were necessary commodities for the purpose of the war precautions (prices) regulations.

HOMEBUSH STOCK SALES.

SHEEP AGAIN LOWER.

Plain and medium class sheep were again lower in price yesterday at Homebush sale yards, but prime sorts were in better demand, and there was but little change in values in respect to these. Although the number of sheep drawn for totalled 13,678, the actual number in the pens was 11,362, from 48 owners. The quality of the sheep was good. While the merinos were largely in evidence prime crossbreds were also plentiful. The attendance of buyers was good, all sections of mountain and coastal butchers being in attendance. The representative of the Meat Committee again operated for the metropolis. The market opened with a fair amount of competition, but this did not maintain its buoyancy to the finish, with a result that the market became irregular and finished generally weaker. Among the crossbreds was a line of 209 cross wethers, which came from J. Wilson, of Griffith. These sold to 51/, and averaged 49/5. The trustees of the late A. J. L. Learmonth, of Bringagee, forwarded 243 merino wethers, which made to 52/, and averaged 49/3.

Amongst the principal sales were the following:—From L. Brennan, of Wee Waa, xb w to 35/8; from S. Wilson and Co., of Wyalong, xb w to 49/5; from J. Greenaway, of Rowena, sold to 35/5, and averaged 32/9, while a third consignment of crossbred lambs came from C. W. Pye, of Coonamble. These sold to 35/, and averaged 32/7.

CATTLE.

MARKET EASIER.

For some time the cattle market has been very firm, but yesterday it was easier, except for prime cattle, which was much at last day's rates. The total yarding reached a little over 1400, from 47 owners, but a stock train was late, and some of the cattle did not arrive until the sales were over. The late arrivals were either sold privately, or held over until Monday. The attendance of buyers was quite up to the average. Competition was fair, and the sales concluded shortly after lunch. A line of 15 bullocks from A. Edwards, of Carrathool, made to £29/1/, and averaged £25/5/5; and a yard of bullocks from C. Wennerbom, of Temora, made to £28/12/6, and averaged £25/14/4.

Among the principal sales were the following:—From J. J. Leahy, of Bribary, 53 bullocks to £23/11/1, avg £21/10/10, and 4 cows to £18, avg £17; from J. Smith, of Camura, 49 bullocks to £21/15/, avg £19; from C. Wennerbom, of Temora, 8 bullocks to £28/12/6, avg £25/14/4; from D. O'Loughlin, of Grenfell, 8 bullocks to £25/11/, avg £23/19/; from Gundebi Estates, Ltd., of Roxburgh, bullocks to £19/16/, and cows to £15/10/; from Midkin Station, Moree, 50 bullocks to £22/7/, avg £19/13/8; from A. S. and F. S. O'Donnell, 45 bullocks to £20/10/, avg £18/12/.

STATION PRODUCE SALES.

The Sydney Wool-selling Brokers' Association report:—

Tallow.—After an enforced interval through strike troubles, extending over three weeks, auction sales were resumed yesterday, when 234 casks were catalogued. There was a full muster of buyers present, and the market opened firm for all qualities. As sales progressed, however, values improved, until the close the market showed an advance of 40/ to 45/ per ton for the better grades, and 20/ to 30/ per ton on the lower descriptions. Both local manufacturers and shippers operated, and excellent clearances were effected. Quotations: Prime butchers' mixed, £50 to £50/10/ per ton; exceptional lines to £50/15/; good, £48/10/ to £49/10/; medium, £46/10/ to £48; inferior, £44 to £46; broken pack ages, £41 to £45/10/.

Hair, Bones, and Sundries.—At yesterday's auctions catalogues were rather on the small side. Horsehair, cowhair, and cow stumps sold at about late figures, while thighbones, buttocks, shins, white, striped, and black hoofs, sinews and pizzles received strong support on Japanese account at enhanced prices. Other descriptions were unchanged. Quotations: Horsehair to 22/ per lb, cowhair to /11½, cow stumps to /6, round shank bones to £39, flat shank bones to £12/10/ per ton, mixed shank bones to £15, thighbones to £32/15/, clods to £8/5/, buttocks to £36/10/, shin bones to £21/15/, white hoofs to £21/5/, striped hoofs to £19/10/, black hoofs to £18, mixed hoofs to £20, sinews to £22/10/, hide pieces to £17, pizzles to £15, muzzles to £6, knuckles to £7, scrolls to £7/10/.

The unassociated brokers also held sales.

MINING.

JUNCTION NORTH STILL HIGHER.

A fair average business was negotiated in mining shares on the Stock Exchange yesterday. Barriers commanded most attention, and of this group Junction North figured rather prominently at enhanced rates. The market closed decidedly stronger at 13/7; Junction, con., at 7/5, and British at 32/3, were strong seconders of the Junction North movement, while the more local New Burragorang chimed in at 6/, a recovery of /3. Westonias were similarly strengthened, and Deeps moved up to 28/10½, while Consolidated, of which all shares are now paid up, advanced to 20/3. The parent Edna May stock changed hands at 49/, and Black Range West seemed to be better supported at 4/6. Sharp fluctuation attended dealings in Trong, which altogether failed to justify the rise effected late on the previous day. The popular tin stocks Kampong and Larut were on a sound footing at 44/ and 45/6 respectively.

STOCK EXCHANGE SALES.

The following mining sales were listed:—

Copper: Mt. Lyell Blocks, 2/, 2/1; Hampden, 2 months, 27/3.

Gold: Edna May Battler, 4/11; Edna May Deep Levels, 28/3, 28/3, 3 months sellers' option 28/3, 6 weeks 28/3, cash 28/4½, 28/10½; Edna May Consolidated, 20/3, 20/3; Edna May (unlisted), 49/; Black Range West, 4/3, 4/6.

FEDERAL SESSION.

WAR PRECAUTIONS ACT.

MELBOURNE, Thursday.

In the House of Representatives this afternoon,

In reply to Mr. Chapman (N.S.W.), the Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes) said it was proposed to take this week the following bills:—Crude Shale Oil, Wood Pulp, and Rock Phosphates Bounties Act, 1912, Loan Bill, Public Works Committee, and Committee of Public Accounts Bill, and the Defence Bill; also the Senate's amendments in the Naturalisation and Railways bills. It was intended to meet on Tuesday next at 3 o'clock, on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday at 11 o'clock, and to rise, if possible, at 4 o'clock on Friday. The object of the extra and early sittings was to complete the business that remained on the notice paper—the Repatriation Bill and a measure to provide for the taxation of eligibles, single men who would not otherwise be exempt from enlisting. There was also a measure for the appointment of a portfolio Minister to administer the repatriation measure. That would complete the business, but it was not proposed to rise for any length of time. A few weeks later he would ask the House to meet again some time in November.

In reply to Mr. Riley (N.S.W.), the Prime Minister said his attention had been drawn by the Postmaster-General to a sentence passed on an old man of 85 years in Sydney of six months under the Unlawful Associations Act. He would look into the matter.

The leader of the Opposition (Mr. Tudor), moved the adjournment of the House to discuss the issue of regulations under the War Precautions Act. Every day, said Mr. Tudor, they were getting bundles of notices of new regulations, and though it was within their province to move that a regulation be disallowed, he had not known of one instance in 15 or 16 years where a motion to disallow a regulation had been moved. He was a member of the Government when the War Precautions Act was passed, and the Prime Minister distinctly stated that it was to be used for war purposes. No member of the then Government expected the Act to be used during an industrial crisis. These regulations were now standing in the way of a settlement of this dispute. If the present Government wanted to amend the Arbitration Act, let them bring down an amending bill, and do it in a straightforward way. They had one regulation dealing with the wool industry, which was brought forward for the purpose of bringing shearers into this industrial trouble. The Government wanted to widen the area of the dispute.

The Prime Minister (Mr. Hughes), said the leader of the Opposition had not been accurate in one single citation of fact. He denied that any of the regulations was improper or unnecessary; on the contrary, they had served as a more or less effective weapon in protecting the community, which had been menaced during the last five or six weeks, by the desertion from their posts of a large section of workers. He resented most bitterly the aspersion that he issued regulations against the Australian Workers' Union; if all the unions had been like the A.W.U. there would have been no trouble at all. The A.W.U. had set a pattern to the unions of this country; it was bound by an agreement, and it had kept to it. To the executive of the A.W.U. a debt of gratitude was due by the people of the country. What he had done was to strike a blow for the discipline, and for the executive of the A.W.U., against the I.W.W. men in the back country of Queensland. These regulations wer intended to be applied to matters arising out of the war, and Mr. Tudor knew it was in effect a revolt against the law. It was intended to prevent the country carrying out its business. Where had he (Mr. Hughes) abused the power given by the regulations? He had used it a great deal more against the employer than the employee. He had fixed their prices and he had commandeered their goods. The only thing he had done against the unions was to cancel preference to unionists who went out on strike, after the issue of the regulations. The Government had no reason to apologise for its action. The men who went out on strike must pay the penalty. It was not a heavy one, and the men who took their places must be protected.

Mr. Palmer (Vic.) said he believed that if the Opposition had been in power the present dispute would have culminated in a revolution.

After further debate the motion lapsed.

Mr. Hughes informed Mr. Finlayson (Q.) that no suggestion that prisoners from the internment camps should be used in place of unionists on strike had ever been made.

Mr. Groom, in answer to Mr. Chapman (N.S.W.), said that there were men employed at the small arms factory who were apparently eligible for active service, and had not been debarred by the department from enlisting. Instructions had been issued that in future only returned soldiers, rejected volunteers, and men outside military age were to be engaged.

The Minister for Home and Territories, Mr. Glynn, replying to Mr. Brennan (Vic.), said that it was undesirable to table correspondence between the electoral officers here and overseas in regard to the conscription referendum; this could not be done without disclosing the results of the voting in detail.

Mr. Hughes, in reply to Mr. Catts, said that the present Federal Ministry had made no representations to the Imperial Government in regard to territory in the Pacific being added to the Commonwealth territory. Representations on the subject had been made by the Labour Ministry of which he was leader. The Commonwealth Ministry, on behalf of Australia, had not submitted any suggestions as to peace terms for the consideration of the Imperial authorities.

The second reading of the Public Works Committee Bill was agreed to by 23 votes to 9, and the bill was passed through its remaining stages. A similar measure, the Committee of Public Accounts Bill, was also passed. A loan bill, to authorise the raising of £1,862,000 for Public Works, was passed.

In the Senate to-day the War Loan Bill, enabling the Government to borrow £80,000,000 for war purposes, and the war Loan (United Kingdom) Bill were passed.

The second reading of the War Times Profit Tax Bill was agreed to.

In clause 4, the Vice-President of the Executive Council, Senator Millen, secured an addition to the definitions of partnership, to include beneficiaries under a will, settlement, or deed of trust, who are carrying on business jointly.

Progress was reported on clause 7.

The Public Works Committee Bill and the Public Accounts Committee Bill were read a first time.

The Senate, at 11.2 p.m., adjourned till 11 a.m. to-morrow.

AUSTRALIAN WEATHER.

THE "HERALD" MAP.

The high pressure which on Wednesday was centred between Brisbane and Norfolk Island has shifted to the south-east, and has gained two-tenths of an inch in barometrical values. At 9 a.m. yesterday it was situated between The Bluff and Wellington.

The Antarctic disturbance has made rapid progress eastwards, having travelled about 1000 miles in the 24 hours ended at 9 a.m. yesterday. At present it only covers the SE corner of the Continent. The disturbance has been responsible for light to moderate rains over the eastern half of the Commonwealth.

The following "high" has not very much energy, so that mild conditions will probably follow the general rains.

Another disturbance has made its appearance in Western Australia, with its centre to the SW of the Leeuwin.

Further rain may be expected over the north-eastern districts and on the south-east slopes.

Ocean Forecasts: Squally around Tasmania; strong northerlies around the Leeuwin.

SYDNEY FERRIES.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE HERALD.

Sir,—"Medicus" feels he is badly used because the war has reduced his Sydney Ferries dividends. Well, he is not the only one who has been hit by the war. I, for example, put some of my scanty savings into a company which has just been wound up because it was forbidden to export its products. Again, I am interested, through my son, in some land, but because we were compelled to provide cheap butter for "Medicus" and the rest of the Sydney Ferries shareholders during a severe drought, there has been—far from any return on the borrowed capital—a heavy loss.

Nevertheless, I see no reason to complain or worry about what the future may bring forth. In these times of unutterable suffering and loss to individuals and nations, the evil of each day is sufficient for it, and no heed need be given to the fate of a far-off future. However, if it is any comfort to "Medicus," I will assure him that when the gallants of North Sydney come back to reside there again his dividends will go up.

I am, etc., RICHARD ARTHUR.

RANDWICK TRAINING NOTES.

The Flemington trainer, James Scobie, and, of course, his principal patron, Mr. E. E. D. Clarke, have lost the services of that fine looking horse, Billion, in so far as the A.J.C. meeting is concerned. Yesterday morning, after running a mile in 1m 54s with Clydeside, he pulled up sorely from the nose, as he did in the Derby, when a decent race was expected from him. Kilbey was not present. After his gallop on Wednesday, he developed lameness in the off fore leg, but was unable yielded to stable treatment. Instead of the double galloped yesterday morning, he was, later in the morning, given a good swim in the ocean. Every endeavour will be made to keep him on his feet for the A.J.C. Spring Stakes. Mr. K. Austin, of Messrs. H. Chisholm and Co., was present and completed the sale of Immortel to Mr. H. R. Denison, and the gelding goes into the care of that gentleman's trainer, Mr. Tuckerman. Immortel was owned by Mr. G. D. Greenwood, and was bought from New Zealand with Gluten and Kilowatt by R. J. Mason. The latest arrivals at Randwick are Broken Glass and Dunardes, from Melbourne.

Biplane was responsible for the sensation of the morning. The outer half of the course proper was in excellent order and in use, but Mason paid a special visit to gallop Biplane on the middle grass track, which has not been used this season. With a very light weight up, and lightly shod, this flying son of Fumbly King ran seven furlongs in 1m 27½s, which is said to be a record, though, in times gone by, we have seen Girandes, Irishman, and such horses carrying heavier slower, run it in a second more. Three of Biplane's opponents in the three-year-old race were galloped on the tan with Glad Eye (imp.), whose feet have been troubling him, moved freely for a nine furlongs spin, but was going in good style at the end of a furlong. He was ridden by E. Lewis, who forced the pace, and, at the end of a mile, was a half-dozen lengths in front of Glad Eye. Time from the mile post to the distance post (six furlongs) in 1m 17½s, and the nine furlongs were covered in 2m—the last mile in 1m 46s. Thrice and such good shoes, and the tan for time-making is not to be compared with the middle grass track; and essentially his middle seven furlongs was rightly equal to Biplane's.

The first to go fast was Pah King, who, after cantering round the tan, was mounted by M'Lachlan and joined by First Lemon. They went on the middle grass track, and jumped off for a mile. Pah King, well in hand, had a strong pull over his mate at the finish, and accounted for the journey in 1m 44s—an excellent gallop. Mentone, Sweet Corn, Elliot, was equal to that of Biplane. Sweet Corn, it is a credit to her trainer, ran five furlongs in 1m 5s, then Westcourt and Eastcourt travelled a mile in company in 1m 47s, and Sobriety was bowling along fairly. Mehi King was ordered to go six furlongs, but dashed off from the seven, and ran it in 1m 32s. Six furlongs in 1m 23s were run by Camp Out and Palm Oil, but Wedge was let off with a canter. Court Jester went on the course proper, and having well out, ran a mile in 1m 47s—a good gallop. Chesterville did only pacing work, and a pretty gallop over 10 furlongs went down to Two Rulers. Leselia, whom rumour had in queer street, went freely over 12 furlongs at a good pace; and Corinne, with the assistance of two mates, knocked off nine furlongs without trouble in 2m 1s; while Gladiator and Match On did seven furlongs nicely in 1m 33s, but Ardrossan was not extended.

Wallace Isinglass and the Derby colt, Prince Viridis, were associated in a stout 10-furlongs working gallop, and Bedlan put up half a mile along the tan, took 51s. His mate, Donore, did similar work. This is a fine-looking English horse, who has given his trainer, James Chambers, of Morpeth, a lot of trouble; but he is seemingly sound and well now. The Bali and the Treasady two-year-old, Trevelyn, travelled over half a mile in 52s; and O'Donnell's two-year-old, Almona, went a similar distance with the Toff in 51½s. Brian Lol Law Student over a mile in 1m 49s, and six furlongs in 1m 23s were accomplished by Immortel and Perform. Baltic Sea beat Caston over a mile in 2m 19s. Sorenette was run a mile and a quarter in 2m 19s. Sorenette was too good for The Christian Brother over a mile, which occupied 1m 46s, and Theosil defeated Chit over six furlongs on the tan, run in 1m 17s. Sasanof was run in 2m 16s, and at the end of a similar distance, run in 1m 28s, Durrington ran six furlongs in 1m 17s. Six furlongs in 1m 28s were traversed by Woolnis, while Lathian and Marsano ran seven in 1m 36s, and a strong nine furlongs gallop was given Chenmatter and Girlan.

Gladstater showed Lucky Tap a clean pair of heels for the first five of six furlongs, but the chestnut had the better of the finish in 1m 29s. Thouss, carrying his heaviest of the Smith in 1m 29s. Thouss, carrying lolled in 1m 30s. His mate, Donore, fell in with Woods, was a length in front of Colbert, with a length away, at the close of a mile, run in 1m 45s, and Metarlinck led Pleasant Moments, Pontorose, and Miss la Rose at the end of a similar distance, run in 1m 46s. Nortery and Lord Windermere sprinted five furlongs in 1m 6s, and Innis Lass defeated Lady over six furlongs in 1m 20s, a distance which Merlin ran in 1m 22s. Pen Teer accounted for the furlongs in 3m 3s, and a mile in 1m 49s went to Trillarush and Winston. Cisco galloped seven furlongs in 1m 33s, a time performance Aberlady, with a light weight up, equalled. West Malone ran nine furlongs in 2m 7s, and Marea did a working gallop. Half of the Smith beat Lancer Flame over seven furlongs in 1m 32s, and Lady Comely was not all out to do six furlongs in 1m 22s. Secret Service was in front of The Fortune Hunter at the finish of a mile, in 1m 46s; while Galen ran six furlongs in 1m 26s, and Barwood King nine in 2m 5s. Among the others that worked were the New Zealand jumpers, Walnut and Tenacious.
